The Garich Family

Early Garich history predating the immigration of Edward Joseph Garich in 1878/1879 has proved to be an enigma. Even those who have previously undertaken the responsibility of recording the Garich heritage are hard-pressed to provide material of Edward's life before he left Germany.

Vague remembrances place Edward's homeland in the area of East Prussia, a district or state in Germany. However, any Germanic Garich material acquired so far relates to a line located in Croatia/Yugoslavia, an area somewhat removed from Edward's supposed place of origin. (Information on the Croatian Garich line appears elsewhere in this section.)

Efforts to locate information concerning Edward's immigration have been unsuccessful. At this time, a "manual search" has been ordered through the United States Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington, DC. Although Edward and his second wife, Anna Camelia (Cecilia?) Kroulik, also an immigrant, were recorded as "naturalized" on census records, their naturalization records have proved as elusive as their immigration records.

Tradition indicates that the family name was originally von Garich and that the "von" was dropped upon immigration. Although some believe that the "von" indicates some kind of royal ancestry, a German researcher maintains that "von" merely means "from." Consequently, if our name was indeed "von Garich" back in the homeland, our family could have had origins in an area called Garich, or something similar to Garich. So far, efforts to locate such a region have been unsuccessful. (All research attempts have been conducted for both the Garich and von Garich surnames. Phone directory searches for Germany have uncovered some Gariches, but no von Gariches. Inquiries sent to the German Gariches have been unanswered.)

Another mystery is Edward's parentage. On his death certificate (Texas #55501), his father is listed as Edward Garich. However, in the space for his

The Ganich Family

Early Ganich history predating the immigration of Edward Joseph Ganich in 1873/1879 has proved to be an enigma. Even those who have previously undertaken the responsibility of recording the Ganich heritage are hard-pressed to provide material of Edward's life before he left Germany.

Vague remembrances place Edward's homeland in the area of East Prussia, a district or state in Germany. However, any Germanic Ganich material acquired so far relates to a line located in Croatia/Yugoslavia, an area somewhat removed from Edward's supposed place of origin. (Information on the Croatian Ganich line appears elsewhere in this section.)

Attempts to locate information concerning Edward's immigration have been unsuccessful. At this time, a "manual search" has been ordered through the United States Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington, D.C. Although Edward and his second wife, Anna Gandla (Cecilia?) Kroetil, also an immigrant, were recorded as "naturalized" on census records, their naturalization records have proved as elusive as their immigration records.

Tradition indicates that the family name was originally von Ganich and that the "von" was dropped upon immigration. Although some believe that the "von" indicates some kind of royal ancestry, a German researcher maintains that "von" merely means "from." Consequently, if our name was indeed "von Ganich" back in the homeland, our family could have had origins in an area called Ganich, or something similar to Ganich. So far, efforts to locate such a region have been unsuccessful. (All research attempts have been conducted for both the Ganich and von Ganich surnames. Phone directory searches for Germany have uncovered some Ganiches, but no von Ganiches. Inquiries sent to the German Ganiches have been unanswered.)

Another mystery is Edward's parentage. On his death certificate (Texas #35501), his father is listed as Edward Ganich. However, in the space for his mother's name, the word "unknown" appears. Of course, there could be simple and ordinary explanations for all these lapses of information (his mother, for example, had died when he was born, and he was raised by grandparents); but an active imagination can surely invent a romantic cloud of mystery around our worthy ancestor!

What is known is that in 1878 or 1879, Edward Joseph Garich, a trained pharmacist, left his native Germany to seek his fortune in the United States. His father, who had never remarried, had settled in Cuba, KS, after a trip across the Atlantic a few years before. The younger Edward settled in Severy, Kansas, where he worked at his trade and married a local girl named Mary Frances Hohman. Although Mary was born in Iowa and her mother in Kentucky, she was the child of an immigrant father, who was born in Germany. By Mary Edward fathered six sons and a daughter: Fred, Agnes Louisa, August "Gus" Hampton, Robert William, Leo/Lee F., Edward Joseph, and William "Bill." Mary died soon after Bill's birth.

Edward then met Anna Kroulik Schoedr/Schroeder, who had come to the United States from Bohemia, Czechoslovakia, by boat when she was eleven. Records indicate that Anna had been previously married to a man named --?-- Schoedr/Schroeder, by whom she had a son named Albert. Albert Schoedr/Schroeder was living in 1910 with his mother and step-father. He also visited his mother in Salem, IL, in 1942. However, his contact with the Garich family, including his mother, was apparently negligible.

At the time of Edward and Anna's marriage, 15 Mar 1902, Anna was twenty-five and Edward forty-five, a difference in ages that was a source of controversy among Edward's children by Mary, who were close to Anna's age themselves. Though Anna and Edward stayed in Kansas for the next few years, the time marked by the birth of Percy Joseph "P.J." in 1904 and Clara in 1908, Edward's older children continued to pressure the couple about

His father, who had never remarried, had settled in Cuba, KS, after a trip across the Atlantic a few years before. The younger Edward settled in Severy, Kansas, where he worked at his trade and married a local girl named Mary Frances Holman. Although Mary was born in Iowa and her mother in Kentucky, she was the child of an immigrant father, who was born in Germany. By Mary Edward fathered six sons and a daughter: Fred, Agnes Louisa, August "Gus" Hampton, Robert William, Lloyd Ce P., Edward Joseph, and William "Bill." Mary died soon after Bill's birth.

Edward then met Anna Kroulik Schroeder/Schroeder, who had come to the United States from Bohemia, Czechoslovakia, by boat when she was eleven. Records indicate that Anna had been previously married to a man named --?-- Schroeder/Schroeder, by whom she had a son named Albert.

Albert Schroeder/Schroeder was living in 1910 with his mother and step-father. He also visited his mother in Salem, Il., in 1942. However, his contact with the Garich family, including his mother, was apparently negligible.

At the time of Edward and Anna's marriage, 15-Mar 1902, Anna was twenty-five and Edward forty-five, a difference in ages that was a source of controversy among Edward's children by Mary, who were close to Anna's age themselves. Though Anna and Edward stayed in Kansas for the next few years, the time marked by the birth of Percy Joseph "P.J." in 1904 and Clan in 1908, Edward's older children continued to pressure the couple about their "undesirable" marriage. In 1911, Edward and Anna moved with their two children, Anna's Albert, and Edward's youngest by Mary (Bill) to Cherry Hill, AR, where another son, Roy, was born in 1913. (Edward and Anna had twins--Joeie and Johnny Garich--born before P.J. Both twins, however, died at six months of age of "summer complaint," severe vomiting and diarrhea.)

Many of the Gariches responding to my inquiries have been descendants of Edward's "first family." In phone conversations with some of them, I discovered that their branch had retained the "old" pronunciation of the Garich name--saying GARRICK instead of GARRISH. The pronunciation change for our branch of the family occurred during the Salem, IL, Oil Boom in 1939. The German pronunciation of GARRICK for a name spelled GARICH was apparently too confusing for people in the Salem area. Because so many persisted in mispronouncing the name, P.J. Garich decreed that GARICH would forevermore be pronounced GARRISH, thus surrendering a bit of his heritage to small-town stubbornness.

In Cherry Hill, AR, Edward prospered. He purchased some farm land and built a one-room wood house there for his family. He also opened a general store, Garich Grocery Store, which was similar to Lum and Abner's Pine Ridge, AR, Jot-'Em-Down Store, popularized by a national radio show.

The Garich children attended grammar school in a two-room schoolhouse in Cherry Hill. P.J., who did not like school, cut his classes constantly but somehow managed to graduate from the eighth grade. However, he elected not to attend boarding high school in Mena, AR, preferring instead to clerk in his father's grocery store. (In his thirties, P.J. did further his education with a number of correspondence courses that included refrigeration and electronics.)

When P.J. was sixteen, he ran away from home. Little is known about his experiences during this time, but when he returned to Cherry Hill three years

In the thirties, P.1. did further his education with a number of correspondence courses that included refrigeration and electronics.)

When P.1. was sixteen, he ran away from home. Little is known about his experiences during this time, but when he returned to Cherry Hill three years later, he was ready to settle down.

On 23 May 1923, he and Delia Cagle were married by a Cherry Hill justice of the peace on the JP's front porch.

Ironically, P.J. encountered family resistance to his marriage just as his parents had. One reason for the objections was that P.J. was two years younger than his twenty-one-year-old bride. The major problem, though, especially in the eyes of Anna Garich, was religion: P.J. was raised a Catholic; Delia, a Protestant.

Perhaps his parents' stern disapproval caused P.J. to turn to his new father-in-law for work. Walter Cagle, a tall and thin man with ears that "could sail a plane," was a blacksmith in Oden, AR, and P.J. became his apprentice. Nicknamed "Gigpole" by his friends, Walter taught P.J. to shoe horses, sharpen plows, work with iron, and make gigpoles (poles used to spear fish and frogs).

During these apprentice years, P.J. and Delia had two daughters: Doris Joann, born in 1924 in Oden, and Jonnie Marie, born in 1925 in Cherry Hill. (P.J. also acquired a tattoo at this time. This tattoo, of a girl with Mae West proportions and in a bathing suit, became a source of embarrassment to P.J., who always wore long-sleeved shirts to conceal the mark.)

Because the area around Oden was poverty-stricken and did not hold many opportunities, P.J. and Delia moved their family west to Oklahoma, where P.J. began the trade that would establish his future reputation: oilfield welding and machine work. Two more daughters were born to the couple in Oklahoma: Lela Jean in Sallisaw in 1927 and Iris Oleta in Allen in 1928.

When the East Texas Oil Boom occurred in the early 1930's, P.J. obtained a position with the Spencer-Harris Machine Shop in Gladewater, TX. There in 1933, P.J.'s final child and only son, Walter Edward, was born.

The Depression years of the 1930's brought extra hardships to the already struggling family of seven. On some days P.J. was lucky to earn a whole dollar for a full day of back-breaking work. Because of these difficult times, P.J. was sometimes forced to work for people who stole oil from the pipelines. During the night, he welded a "hot" line to the pipelines; then others would tap the lines. P.J.'s pay was fifty dollars for each night of

On 23 May 1923, he and Delia Cagle were married by a Cherry Hill justice of the peace on the JP's front porch.

Ironically, P.L. encountered family resistance to his marriage just as his parents had. One reason for the objections was that P.L. was two years younger than his twenty-one-year-old bride. The major problem, though, especially in the eyes of Anna Gerdeh, was religion: P.L. was raised a Catholic; Delia, a Protestant.

Perhaps his parents' stern disapproval caused P.L. to run to his new father-in-law for work. Walter Cagle, a tall and thin man with ears that "could sail a plane," was a blacksmith in Odem, AK, and P.L. became his apprentice. Nicknamed "Gilpole" by his friends, Walter taught P.L. to shoe horses, sharpen plows, work with iron, and make gigpoles (poles used to spear fish and frogs).

During those apprentice years, P.L. and Delia had two daughters: Doris Joann, born in 1924, in Odem, and Jonnie Marie, born in 1925 in Cherry Hill. (P.L. also acquired a tattoo at this time. Because of these difficult times, P.L. was sometimes forced to work for people who stole oil from the pipelines. During the night, he welded a "hot" line to the pipelines; then others would tap the lines. P.L.'s pay was fifty dollars for each night of this dangerous work. Fortunately, he was never apprehended, but he faced the risk willingly to feed and clothe his family. In fact, his efforts and Delia's thrifty and resourceful ways quite shielded the Depression's severities from their children, who have few, if any, recollections of any deprivations normally associated with this period of history.

When the Salem Oil Boom occurred in 1939, Spencer-Harris transferred P.J. to Salem, IL. Because of a housing shortage that resulted from the oil boom, P.J. and his family moved several times, living in Iuka and Sandoval before finally settling in Salem.

At the beginning of World War II, Anna Garich came to live in Salem. Her youngest son, Roy, had been drafted into the Army, and her husband, Edward, had died the day after Pearl Harbor, 8 Dec 1941, in Kilgore, TX, where Edward and Anna had moved after leaving Cherry Hill. Edward's death had caused a family crisis because his children by his first wife wanted him buried in Kansas by Mary, but Anna wanted him buried in Cherry Hill. After some negotiations, during which Anna urged P.J. to guard the family cash register, Edward's body was taken to Frankfort (Marshall County), KS, for burial.

With Anna's arrival in Salem, Delia sought to make peace with her mother-in-law by converting to Catholicism. Doris had already expressed interest in the religion, and Delia decided that the whole family should make the conversion. Though P.J. had moved away from the church, his family's conversion convinced him to return.

P.J.'s success and reputation in the oil fields were growing rapidly by now, and he was promoted to head foreman of the Salem shop. In 1946 W.T. "Dutch" Stanford hired P.J. away from the Spencer-Harris Company, and P.J. started an oil field machine shop which immediately began production on a web guide, a machine that rolls material in a uniform row with the proper tension to maintain alignment.

Eventually, when there was no longer a need for the oil field shop, P.J. bought the place and continued to operate it on the same premises until 1959, when he moved it to a site on Route 50 West in Salem, where P.J. Repair Service is now. At that time, however, the business was known as P.J.'s Machine Shop. There P.J. earned the reputation of being the best mud pump man in this dangerous work. Fortunately, he was never apprehended, but he faced the risk willingly to feed and clothe his family. In fact, his efforts and Delia's thrifty and resourceful ways quite shielded the Depression's severities from their children, who have few, if any, recollections of any deprivations normally associated with this period of history.

When the Salem Oil Boom occurred in 1939, Spencer-Harris transferred P.L. to Salem, Il. Because of a housing shortage that resulted from the oil boom, P.L. and his family moved several times, living in Iuka and Sandoval before finally settling in Salem.

At the beginning of World War II, Anna Clarich came to live in Salem. Her youngest son, Roy, had been drafted into the Army, and her husband, Edward, had died the day after Pearl Harbor, 8 Dec 1941, in Kilgore, TX, where Edward and Anna had moved after leaving Cherry Hill. Edward's death had caused a family crisis because his children by his first wife wanted him buried in Kansas by Mary, but Anna wanted him buried in Cherry Hill. After some negotiations, during which Anna urged P.L. to guard the family cash register, Edward's body was taken to Hamilton (Marshall County), KS, for burial.

Doris had already expressed interest in the religion, and Delia decided that the whole family should make the conversion. Though P.L. had moved away from the church, his family's conversion convinced him to return.

Southern Illinois.

After P.J.'s son, Edward, was discharged from the Army, he became part of the crew of P.J.'s Machine Shop, where he had worked as an apprentice during his high school years. The professional relationship between father and son was productive. In 1962 they designed a drilling rig derrick that was the first of its kind.

When P.J.'s health began to fail, the result of years of heavy smoking that had produced his emphysema, P.J. sold the business to Edward in 1964. P.J. and Delia then retired to Mena, AR, where P.J. was free to raise cattle, to fish, and to gossip with his buddies as they drank coffee in a local cafe.

On 14 Apr 1971, at the age of sixty-seven, Percy Joseph "P.J." Garich died of lung cancer. He was survived by his wife, five children, fourteen grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Now, in November of 1993, his widow, Delia Cagle Garich, is ninety-one and living in a nursing home in Mt. Ida, AR. Two of P.J. and Delia's daughters, however, have passed away: Jonnie Marie Garich Bass died of cancer in 1988, and Lela Jean Garich Cleveland died in 1993 of cardiac arrest following hospitalization for emphysema. Their surviving daughters, Doris Joann Garich Marcum and Iris Oleta Garich Olsen, live in Mena, AR, and Dallas, TX, respectively. Their son, Walter Edward Garich, continues to own and operate P.J. Repair Service in Salem, IL.

Dear Ms. Cleveland;

Thank you for your order which I received july 12th. The results are enclosed.

You requested an extensive search for information on Edward Joseph Garick and his wife Anna Camelia Kroulik. You sent enough to cover eight hours of research with some left over for copies. In fact I did more than eight hours of research on this order but did not have much luck.

First what I did find and have enclosed. I found and copied the E.J. Garick family entries in the 1900, 1910 and 1920 federal censuses. I could not find another Garick or Von Garick that could have been his father. I did a line by line search of Republic county looking for any Garick in the 1880 census with no luck.

Next I searched the 1895 state census of Republic county. No Garick but I did find Anna and her family. In looking at the FHL catalog, I noticed a listing of Czech´s in Republic county from a Czech newspaper. I checked and found Anna´s father Anton, listed. This listing shows where he came from and is the only thing I found that really answers one of your questions.

I also checked the 1895 state census of Washington county for the Garick family. No luck. I checked the 1885 state census for E. J. with no luck there either. It would seem that Edward and perhaps his father, stopped in another state before he ended up in Washington county, Kansas.

I did a soundex search of the 1900, 1910 and 1920 censuses and extracted the entries for the Kroulik family. They are enclosed.

I looked at the IGI for Germany and could not find Edward. I looked at the IGI for Czechoslovakia and could not find Anton.

The naturalization records that are at the FHL do not cover 1904 which is the year the Kroulik family was naturalized. Edward gave 1890 as the year he was naturalized, but the records for Kansas do not list him. This is just one more thing that points to him being in another state.

I spent a good deal of time trying to find both these families in the various immigration lists and indexes but could not find them. New York passenger lists are not indexed for the period when these people say they arrived.

I tried to find Edward in Iowa in 1880 since that is where his first wife was born, but still no luck.

I could not find any land records or probate records for the Garick name. I am at a loss to think what to do next. You sounded so sure that Edwards father settled in Cuba which is in Republic county. But there is no trace of him. I even looked at some local histories and found nothing.

I am sorry that I took so long with this order, but I just could not believe that I could not find more. I just kept going back to look one more time but lady luck was not with me. By the way, I did keep the variant spellings in mind as I did this research so where I mention only one spelling it does not mean I didn't look for others.

I think the best bet is to try and get the naturalization records. If you can find them, they may give an arrival date and port which would open up a whole new area for searching. I make no promises, but I may do some more checking on this with the specialists at the FHL. There is not now nor will there be later, any extra charge for the many extra hours I put in on this order.

Lastly, the other Cleveland I mentioned is Harry M. Cleveland, 2065 Montreat Dr., Memphis, TN 38134. He was researching the Ventress family from Illinois.

Thanks again for your order. I look forward to serving you again soon.

Sincerely,

Robert E Seabridge

Anton Edward/Edward Joseph Garich
As Told To Betty Ann Van Horn Link
By Clara Garich Van Horn

[Vikki's note: According to Ed Garich's daughter, Clara, this patriarch's name was Anton Edward. However, members of his "first family" by his first wife, Mary Hohman Garich, assert that his name was Edward Joseph--a name that was subsequently passed along through the next two generations. Perhaps he was actually Anton Edward Joseph Garich. Or perhaps Clara inadvertently affixed to her father's name the given name of her maternal grandfather, Anton A. Kroulik. Efforts to locate immigration and naturalization records for Edward Joseph [von] Garich were unsuccessful. However, so far I have located no documentation for an Anton Edward Garich either. The surname Garich is unique enough that Anton Edward would not be so distantly removed from Edward Joseph in indexes. Another genealogical mystery to obsess about!)

Anton Edward (Edward Joseph?) "Ed" Garich came to America (Severy, Kansas) from Germany in 1878. He was 21 years of age at the time, and he came alone. His mother had died at his birth, and his grandparents raised him. He was an only child. His father had come to America some years earlier.

The senior Garich was a carpenter by trade, and he never remarried. He was a small man with a big beard. The last years of his life were spent in Kansas City, Kansas. He made his home at the Catholic Hospital there and did carpenter work for his keep.

Ed Garich ran in the Oklahoma Territory State Run. He was single then. He staked his claim for land and later sold it. He had a dry goods store in Kansas, a drug store in Arkansas, and a grocery store in Texas. He was very good with his hands. He built the family a home in Cherry Hill, Arkansas. It was the only one there at that time with screen doors and screen windows. He was also postmaster at Cherry Hill. The post office and school had at one time been called Egger, but the name was changed back to Cherry Hill in May of 1932.) The first postmaster was Johnny Egger, then Edward Garich. [MOUNTAIN SIGNAL, Oct 1990, page 131...

When Ed's daughter, Clara, was 2 years old (about 1910), the family moved to Cherry Hill, Arkansas. The Catholic Church wanted to start a Catholic community there. Ed Garich bought 160 acres there for $3200. He built a house for his family there, later selling it and moving to another one closer to town. He had a drug store there and was a pharmacist--the store also served as a general store. He served as postmaster there and helped to build a Catholic church.

The Garich home was always open to newcomers to the community, and whole families would stay with them until they could find jobs and housing. There were lively games of checkers between Ed Garich and Father Gallagher (the Catholic priest who came from Mena to conduct services--he stayed with the Gariches also.) Both parties would break into German at the height of the checker game. On Saturday nights, the rugs were rolled up, and there was music and dancing.

Ed Garich was tall and thin. His saying was "When food tastes best, that's the time to quit eating," and he practiced that.

Anna Garich said that her husband Ed would pout when they had a difference of opinion. At one time when they were in Cherry Hill, he went to the barn and stayed for 2 weeks--the kids took him his meals and change of clothing daily. He was pouting and would not talk to Anna.

From Cherry Hill, Arkansas, Ed and Anna went to Kilgore, Texas. They ran a neighborhood grocery store there. The grocery store was in front, and their living quarters were in back.

Ed Garich died there at that store of a cerebral hemorrhage Dec. 7, 1941. He was taken back to Kansas for burial by the children of his first marriage.

Roy Garich (Ed's son by Anna) had been living with Ed and Anna and worked at Wickum Meat Packing as a butcher. In 1942 he went to war (World War II). The grocery store was sold, and Anna went to Salem, Illinois, to be near her other children.

Note: Ed Garich's first job in America was that of a gardener. He spoke no English and didn't understand it very well. Instead of weeding the tomato patch, he cleared the ground and chopped it up! That was the end of his gardener job!

Dear Vikki:

The Greenwood County Clerk forwarded your letter to me here at the Historical Society. I found the birth record of the Garrick child: it reads, Garrick, male, fourth child of mother, white, born, July 11, 1904 in Severy, Kansas; mother, Anna Krolick, age 28; nationality, Bohemian; father, E. Garrick, age 46; American; Dr. D. T. Butcher, Severy, Kansas. The births are recorded in large books and are not in certificate form. It would be extremely difficult to copy the books.

As for the marriage records, I do not find record of Edward Joseph and Anna Camelia Kroulik Garich, in Greenwood County's marriage records. I did find Fredrick M. and Allie Butler, married October 28, 1903. I believe that it is possible that Edward and Anna may have gone to Howard in Elk County to get their license. It is as close to Howard as it is to Eureka or possibly closer. I have found this to be the case sometimes when I cannot find a marriage record here in Greenwood County. Just address your inquiry to the Elk County Clerk in Howard, Kansas 67349 (at the courthouse).

I have enclosed a museum brochure for you. It tells some of the resources available here at the museum.

Sincerely,

Nancy Beitz

Dear Vikki Lyn,

I will write a cover letter and Don may write later if he is able. He has been pretty much confined to bed since last Oct. I want to apologize for the sloppy enclosed chart. Arthritis in my hands makes neat handwriting a skill of the past.
We both enjoyed your letter and realize you have more definite information than we have. We had never heard anything about Severy, KS. but know that Don's father, Ausust, was born in Frankfort, KS. We have no information on the family prior to Edward and Mary. I have included extraneous information because I know that in a genealogy search a tiny clue can sometimes lead to pure gold.

Don remembers visiting an uncle and aunt - Carl and Josephine Martin - in Frankfort, KS. They had two sons - Billy and John. He doesn't know if Josephine was a sister of his gransfather Ed or if they were related to his grandmother Mary Hohman.

When we were in Santa Rosa for Gus' funeral we met another relative - William Schreiner. We don't know how he was related. I later wrote to Bill's wife Blanch, asking his connection but she didn't answer. She is now deceased.

Sorry we couldn't be of any real help in your search. We pray you are high and dry in Salem. This is a sad time for that part of our country.

Sincerely,

Jean

Robert Garich rites tomorrow

BEAUMONT — Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Robert William Garich, 71, of 1055 East Sixth, who died at home on Wednesday.

Rev. Chester Rice of the First Christian Church will officiate at the 11 a.m. services in Weaver Mortuary. Burial will be in Mt. View Cemetery.

Garich was born on Feb. 27, 1890, in Kansas. He had lived here three years. Survivors include a son, Robert G. Garich, of Ponca City, Okla.

Assailant Held After Stabbing Over Pitch Game

Forrest Kriter, southwest of the city, was in the Blackwell General hospital Saturday night, with knife wounds below the left ear and in the left flank and Andrew Rothrock was under arrest on a charge of assault with intent to kill, the result of a stabbing which grew from a quarrel over a pitch game in the Brunswick billiard parlors, according to Chief of Police W. R. Withrow.

Police and the Roberts ambulance were summoned about 8:15 p. m.

Kriter's attending physician said late Saturday night the cuts were not serious and that the man probably would be discharged from the hospital Sunday morning.

Rothrock, Chief Withrow said, was released from the penitentiary last September after serving a term for attempting to kill Robert W. Garich, longtime city baker.

Conscience Hurts; Serviceman Repays Double His Loot

Robert Garich of Joplin, Mo., is going to be a very surprised man one of these days when he receives the letter from a former employe who is now in Uncle Sam's service.

The employe wrote to Mr. Garich at his address at Blackwell, Okla., and the letter was forwarded here to his sister, whom he had been visiting for three months, but Mr. Garich left yesterday morning at 9:30 and the letter did not arrive until 11:30.

The letter read as follows:

"At the time I was in your employ, when you were making nickel bread, I used $25 of your money, when I shouldn't.

"You will find inclosed by check for $50—$25 of the money is the money I took and the other $25 is for interest."

Mr. Garich had been in the wholesale bakery business for 25 years and closed his place of business in Blackwell in February because of ill health.

The letter and check are being forwarded to Mr. Garich at Joplin.

Dear Ms. Cleveland:

I apologize for the delay in answering your letter. I have been trying to dredge up from memories of many years ago some information which might be helpful to you. I also will send a copy of your letter to my brother, Lee Garich, in California, to see if he has anything to add.

Much of the information in your letter matches my memory, some of it does not. Your great grandfather, Edward Joseph Garich, who was my grandfather, was an immigrant from Germany. I have no record of the date of immigration. I believe he said he came from East Prussia, a district or "state" in Germany. However, I never was told that he was a druggist. By the time I first saw him, which would have been in the late 1920s, he was living in Mena, Arkansas, where he owned a general store. I had always thought he farmed before that, but it is possible he was a druggist, since my father, also named Edward Joseph Garich, became a druggist and practiced that profession all his life. Unless my memory is way off, I believe my father told me he was born in Sabetha, KS, not Severy, in 1896. The two towns are quite a distance apart. My grandfather (your great grandfather) later did move to Kilgore, Texas, where we visited him at least once in my memory. I never knew of him living in Cherry Hill, AR, which again is a considerable distance from Mena. I am pretty sure of Mena for we visited him there a couple of times, also.

Now for family personnel. I know that my father had brothers named Bob, Bill, Gus, Fred and I blieve Lee or Leo, and one sister, Agnes. Agnes and her husband lived in St. Joseph, MO, and we visited them many times since our family lived in or near Kansas City for all the years I lived at home. I do not recall an Albert being mentioned, but that was a long time ago. I was told that my grandmother, Mary, died quite young and I never knew her. I knew my grandfather's second wife, Anna, and their son Roy. However, strangely, I don't believe I ever heard of your grandfather, Percy Joseph, or his sister Clara. My father would still have been living at home when Percy was born and quite possibly when Clara was born.

My wife and I are about to leave on a vacation trip. When we return I plan to write the county clerk's office in Sabetha, KS, and try to confirm my memory about my father's birthplace. Your letter was most interesting and I hope your research is successful. If more comes to light, I'd be interested in hearing about it.

Sincerely,

Edward J. Garich

Miss Me-
But Let Me Go

When I come to the end of the road
And the sun has set for me
I want no rites in a gloom filled room
Why cry for a soul set free ?

Miss Me a Little - But Not Too Long
And not with your head bowed low
Remember the love that we once shared
Miss Me - But Let Me Go.

For this is a journey that we all must take
And each must go alone
It's all a part of the Master's plan
A step on the road to home.

When you are lonely and sick of heart
Go to the friends we know
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds.
Miss Me - But Let Me Go.

Percy Joseph (P.J.) Garich
As Told to Betty Ann Van Horn Link
By Her Parents, Earl and Clara Garich Van Horn

P.J. and Delie were living in Oden, Arkansas. Their first child, Doris, was born there. Delie was very sick after childbirth, and Clara (P.J.'s sister) came to stay with the family. She took care of the new baby, did the household chores, and tended to Delie. Clara stayed for several weeks. After that time, Earl (Van Horn) came to pick up Clara and take her back to Cherry Hill, Arkansas, where they lived. (Earl and Clara had not been married too long and had no children at this time. Clara bonded with the baby Doris, and for all of Clara's life, Doris was very special to her.)

After visiting for awhile, it was near dinner time, and P.J. and Delie wanted Earl and Clara to stay for dinner. Clara asked what they would have, as she knew what was in the kitchen and it wasn't much. P.J. said chicken!! Well, Clara and Delie knew they didn't have any chicken, but P.J. said they would have soon!

P.J. took a fishing pole and line and tied a kernel of corn to the end of the line. He went outside, and it wasn't too long before he returned with a chicken (his neighbor's chicken), and they enjoyed a good dinner!

Note: This story was told by Earl and Clara Van Horn to their daughter, Betty Ann Van Horn Link. Several years after P.J. had died, Betty Ann asked Delie about this story. Delie said, "Yes, it was true--BUT P.J. was completely justified in doing this because the neighbor's chickens were in our yard and on our porch more than they were in the neighbor's, and they were in P.J.'s garden all the time. P.J. talked with the neighbor about the problem, but it didn't do any good."

Later P.J. and Delie were living in Gladewater, Texas, and P.J. was working for Spencer-Harris Machine and Tool Company. By that time the Garich family had increased to four daughters (Doris, Jonnie, Lela Jean, and Oleta, and their son, Edward, was born there in Gladewater.

P.J. built a house (3 rooms, very small) for his family, and he used pine boards. He took a welding torch and went up and down the walls to seal them. The bathroom was added to the three rooms, and it was built out of one inch by twelve feet boards, one board wide, and they used a gunny sack (toe sack) for the door.

Percy Jackson (P.J.) Garrick
As Told to Betty Ann Van Horn Lynn
By her parents, Earl and Clara Garrick Van Horn

P.J. and Delia were living in Cedar, Arkansas. Their first child, Doris, was born there. Delia was very sick after childbirth, and Clara (P.J.'s sister) came to stay with the family. She took care of the new baby, did the housework chores, and tended to Delia. Clara stayed for several weeks. After that time, Earl (Van Horn) came to pick up Clara and take her back to Cherry Hill, Arkansas, where they lived. (Earl and Clara had not been married too long and had no children at this time.) After visiting for awhile, it was near dinner time, and P.J. and Delia wanted Earl and Clara to stay for dinner. Clara asked what they would have, as she knew what was in the kitchen and it wasn't much. P.J. said chicken! Well, Clara and Delia knew they didn't have any chicken; but P.J. said they would have soon!

P.J. took a fishing pole and line and tied a worm (I don't know what of the line. He went outside, and it wasn't too long before he returned with a chicken (his neighbor's chicken), and they enjoyed a good dinner!

Now: This story was told by Earl and Clara Van Horn to their daughter, Betty Ann Van Horn Lynn. Several years after P.J. had died, Betty Ann asked Delia about this story. Delia said, "Yes, it was true--BUT P.J. was completely mortified in doing this because the neighbor's chickens were in our yard and on our porch more than they were in the neighbor's, and they were in P.J.'s garden all the time. P.J. talked with the neighbor about the problem, but it didn't do any good."

Later P.J. and Delia were living in Bladewater, Texas, and P.J. was working for Superior-Harris Machine and Tool Company. By that time the Garrick family had increased to four daughters (Doris, Joanne, Lois Jean, and Olivia), and their son, Edward, was born there in Bladewater.

P.J. built a house (2 rooms, very small) for his family, and he used wine boxes. He took a welding torch and went up and down the walls to seal them. The bathroom was added to the three rooms, and it was built out of one inch by twelve feet boards, one board wide, and they used a gunny sack (the sack) for the door.

P.J. and Earl Van Horn talked and thought a job with Spencer-Harris held a good future, as the oil business was booming--this was sometime in 1936. Earl went to work for Spencer-Harris as a helper and then began apprentice welding. P.J. was a machinist. The Earl Van Horn family (Earl, Clara, Betty Ann [approximately 3 years old], and Jim [approximately 1 year old] MOVED IN WITH THE GARICHES!

Both families went from Gladewater, Texas, to Lisbon, Louisiana. Lisbon was a small town near Shreveport, Louisiana. P.J. and Earl still worked for Spencer-Harris. P.J. then went to Salem, Illinois, with Spencer-Harris, as Salem was then a boom town. This was October of 1938. The family had heard how cold Illinois was, and the children (Doris, Jonnie, Lela Jean, Oleta, and Edward) all had new coats piled up in the back seat near the car windows. All were looking forward to snow as they had never seen any. When they arrived in Salem In October of '38, other kids were playing outside in shirt sleeves and light sweaters. The Garich kids were all disappointed since there was no snow and they didn't get to wear their new coats.

P.J. had rented some rooms in a farm house belonging to the Barksdale family and located east of Salem, off Route 50. Earl and family came in November of '38. Earl took Clara and children to Kilgore, Texas, to stay with Clara's parents, Ed and Anna Garich, until he could find housing in Salem. Ed and Anna Garich had a small neighborhood grocery store, and Clara helped them in the store. Earl had rented two front rooms of a farm house located south of Salem, Route 37 South. By November of '38 it was cold, and snow was deep on the ground--a deep pile of snow was in the front yard. Jim Van Horn (age 2 years and 10 months) took his cowboy boots off and climbed on the pile of snow. No one in the Van Horn family had seen snow before, and it was very special. Housing was very scarce in Salem, Illinois, in 1938 as it was an oil boom town and people were moving in from Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana.

P.I. and Earl Van Horn talked and thought a job with Spencer-Harris held a good future, as the oil business was booming--this was sometime in 1928. Earl went to work for Spencer-Harris as a helper and then began apprenticing welding. P.I. was a machinist. The Earl Van Horn family (Earl, Clara, Betty Ann (approximately 3 years old), and Jim (approximately 1 year old) MOVED IN WITH THE GRIMES!

All were looking forward to snow as they had never seen any. When they arrived in Salem in October of '28, either Alice were playing outside in shirt sleeves and light sweaters. The Grimes kids were all disappointed since there was no snow and they didn't get to wear their new coats.

P.I. had rented some rooms in a farm house belonging to the Barksdale family and located east of Salem, off Route 50. Earl and family came in November of '28. As you can see, Vikki, I'm seriously plugging along on the Garich info. Think I told you I send e-mail request to Billy for their families' missing info.
Care to send him a follow-up request? Wonder why Billy is not willing to give info?
(Sent him a letter early 1997 also requesting missing info & this was a second request by letter to back you up.) Everyone is busy but this is

Yo

Dear Vikki:

Here are your answers. Some of it will probably sound crazy to you. Have tried to be honest & answer the way I remember.

Mamaw takes the cake!! She told me to look at the awful thing you sent. I glanced at it and asked her what was "awful" about it. She said for me to read on. I glanced further & still saw nothing "awful." She said "Didn't you see that about my first kiss?" I asked her what was wrong with that. She said "How can I remember my first kiss & why would I want to tell anyone about it?" I told her I could sure remember my first kiss & the name of the boy, where it happened & how I felt. She looked disgusted & said she never kissed anyone but P.G. I reminded her of how she had told me about almost marrying a boy & her Father wouldn't let her & she left him waiting at the Church & I said "You mean to tell me you were going to marry that boy & you never had kissed him? Have you lied your whole life for nothing!? Hasn't you ever experienced anything!?" She got mad & informed me that she was happy the way she was so what did I care. And she said in her day girls didn't kiss boys unless they married cause they would be called "bad & loose girls". I said "Don't give me that stuff. Human nature hasn't changed. They just kept it secret back then, thats all."

Then I changed the subject & took her to the Oriental Restuarant for her Birthday Lunch. (She suprised me by liking the food! She usually doesn't like anything!)

I moved all my Knitting Yarn etc over here & put it all in my sewing room. Cindy enrolled in VoTech here & we had no Customers left anyway so I closed the Knit Shop. Now I have enough Yarn to knit the rest of my life! Took me 3 days & nights to fit it all in.

Am still tired from this summer. Sally & Johnny arrive the 5th or 6th & I'm trying to get my house in order & cook some things ahead.

Cindys Migraine Headache has been gone last 3 days. Connie will live in Dallas & her Husband in San Antonio & they have parted friends. (for now at least) Ray's Eye Surgery came out O.K. but his nerves are no better. Mamaw had a Skin Cancer removed from left upper arm & 3 Keratosis on leg but is O.K. - I guess. Her memory is really bad tho & she acts so weak she takes forever to get in & out of car.

Some time I'll write more but am so tired & sleepy from my "report" to you that I'll close for now & get to bed.

Tell Jean to hang in there. I know she can do it.

I love you both.

Daris

P.S. Don't tell Mamaw I told you about her reaction to your questions or she'll get upset with me for telling you. Since she is such a prude & a cold fish I wonder how she ever had 5 kids!?!!

* PERSONAL QUESTIONNAIRE *

Your name Doris Jolene Marcum

ABOUT YOUR PARENTS

Do you remember any stories about how your parents met and subsequently got married? They were in school together. And my Father was a mean little boy. Chased the girls + teased them with bugs, etc. Mother made the dress she wore to be married + they stood on the front porch of this house between Mena + Oden on Hy 88.

What kind of person was your mother? What special skills did she have? Did she have a job other than housewife/mother? Can you tell me a story that will characterize her? What is your most special memory of her? Being a wife & Mother was my Mothers "Career". She is very talented in sewing & is the cleanest person alive. Before my Father died he said there was one thing he had always wanted to know that was "Why have you always cleaned things that were already clean"? And Mother has very high moral standards. With her "Black is Black + White is White" & there is no in between. If someone does something she thinks is wrong then that person is no good. I will always remember the clothes she sewed for me.

What kind of person was your father? What special skills did he have? What job(s) did he have? Can you tell me a story that will characterize him? What is your most special memory of him? My Father was very good at Welding & if educated could have been an Electrical Engineer. He invented & made an electrical Fly Catcher way back before anyone else ever imagined such a thing! He worked long and hours as a Welder in the Oil fields at Gladewater, Tex. & Salem, Ill. He bought us a Baby Grand Piano & liked to hear me play + I tried very hard so he would be proud of me. He made payments on the piano during the Depression & I'll never forget it & am still grateful to him. He always had a Hobby! Fighting chickens, Golf, Horses, had the first radio in our neighborhood!

ABOUT YOUR GRANDPARENTS

Using the same questions given above, tell me what you remember about your grandparents.

Grand Father Edd Garich - Had a Grocery Store in Cherry Hill Ark. Was a tall slim German with a Moustache. Was always giving me an arithmetic problem - + I could never solve it cause I was so dumb in math. He always gave us Candy + Chocolate Soda Pop at his store. He did not approve of my Mother having so many kids. (5!) I agree with him but didn't he understand it to be my Fathers fault!? ha Grand Mother was fat + sweet + a wonderful cook. Will always remember her Poppy Seed Cake + Dutch apple cake + her long hair that she would let my Sister Johnnie + I comb.

Can you think of any stories you heard about any of your ancestors that were particularly interesting or colorful?

There was a Baby Boy found floating on a Wooden Door off the Samoa Islands. Captain of the Ship who found him adopted him & called him Robert Bell Fine. (The Fine was cause he was such a fine Boy! (my Plane landed at Fiji Islands in 1976 & I discovered people there are Black & Samoa Is. nearly & people there Black too! Hmmmmm — ???

Are there any family heirlooms, property, or traditions that came down to you through your parents or grandparents? Where are they now?

I have a Brass Mortar & Pestle that my Great Grandfather used in his Grocery & Drug Store in Germany. My Grandmother Garich gave it to me because I was her oldest Grand child. I have it now but at my death it goes to my oldest Grand child which is Kara Rae Tucker, my oldest daughter, Connies, daughter.

ABOUT YOU

What is your earliest memory? Playing "When Its Spring Time In The Rockies" on a Harmonica in First Grade. Wore white slacks, white shirt, a Red sash around waist & wore a red round hat, like performing Monkeys wore that organ Grinders had with them. also Remember having a passion for grape suckers!

Do you remember any stories told about you when you were a baby? Yes. I was playing with yellow baby chickens & they say I squeezed some of them to death. And my aunt Clara teased me by saying she was getting her sweater & going some where. I would cry to go too. Guess I was born loving to travel!

How were you disciplined when you acted up or did something wrong?

I can remember my Mother yelling at us & telling us she was going to stomp a mud hole in us! (She never did!!) In my late teens my Dad threatened to sell my Baby Grand Piano if I stayed out all night one more time! (after that I spent the night at a girl friends house if we planned to dance all night! ha ha)

Describe the house you grew up in. Did you have your own room?

We moved so much - Okla, Texas, La, Illinois. at first we 4 girls shared a room. Later - in Illinois I had my own room. We never had expensive houses. Daddy never made a lot of money with five kids there weren't many luxurys!

Tell me something about your first school experiences... about junior high, too... and high school. I loved school in Glademater, Tex, & was very popular. Hated school when we moved to Lisbon, La & I started Jr. High. Then we moved to Salem & I cordoval Illinois for my High School years & hated Illinois & the Dam Yankees!! Leaving Texas ruined my school life! and I grew tall & skinny & felt like a freak. Was so shy that I made my life miserable!!

What were you like as a child? Was a Tom Boy! as the oldest I tended to be the leader. Fought with my Sister Johnnie cause she wanted to lead too - I suppose. Liked Music & art. Drew my own Paper Dolls & designed clothes for them. Caught Crow Dads in creek & cooked them. Johnnie & I cut a live frog open, stuffed with cotton & sewed him up.

What chores did you have to do around the house? Nothing, really. Poor Mother should have made us but we got in her way. If we didn't have home work we washed dishes. (as you might guess - we usually swore to have home work!)

What did you want to do when you grew up? a Dress Designer or a Pianist. or a Model. or an artist. But I didn't have enough sense to pursue any of it!

Has anything strange or unusual ever happened to you? All my life! One day I was driving down Expressway in Dallas & I suddenly knew that I would be married 3 times in my lifetime. Sure enough - I have! and two other times I knew things would happen - & they did. and there was "Gracie Bird" & the door that slammed hard several times when we were making music & yet it couldn't have cause it was locked!

Did you play any Halloween pranks when you were a child? Yes, one time. In Illinois Johnnie & I wrote "Oil Field Trash" on my Fathers car windows with soap. (The Dam Yankees resented us moving up there & we knew Doddy would blame them & get mad) He got so mad that we got scared & confessed. He made us get it off windows & it took a long time to get it all off!

Tell me about a Thanksgiving that was special to you. Once in Salem. All we had dinner at Aunt Clara & Uncle Earls house & for some reason I'll always remember how good the Turkey & Dressing was & how we kids played outside in the Snow & it was a really Mary Book Thanksgiving. (and now Aunt Clara is dead & Uncle Earl is feeble & not right in his mind! How time changes every thing!)

Tell me about a Christmas that was special to you.
Second World War & I worked at Telephone Co. in Salem, Ill & walked to work, weather permitting. I looked at Xmas lights at night & was young & single & free with Snow & lights it seemed like a Story Book Xmas. Later I came to hate Xmas, & hate it worse as years go by.

Tell me about a New Year's Eve that was special to you.
Dallas, Tex. 1967. Ray & I owned Underwood Trailer Park & had a beautiful home. We had a New Years Eve Party & so many friends & we danced to "Bill Blacks Combo" records with good Boogie Bass. (I learned to do the Twist dance. and pulled a muscle behind the Pelvis & was in bed for 3 days & under Drs care.) But I did have fun that night!

Tell me about a birthday that was special to you.
Dallas Tex. 1978. Floyd (my second husband) took me to a very nice Mexican Restaurant & surprised me by having several waitresses bring cake to table & sing Happy Birthday. and now I hate B'days & wish everyone would forget mine!

Did you attend college or were you in the military?
NO.

What job(s) have you had? Which did you like best? Least?
I was a Telephone operator until I married. Then I worked in Fabrics at J.C. Penneys in Dallas one Xmas season. Ray & I owned 3 different Mobile Home Parks in Dallas & I ran the office. I liked the Telephone Operator job best. The worst was running the Mobile Home Park, at the end. I grew to dislike people.

How did you meet your spouse? What is your most outstanding wedding memory? What's the best thing about being married? The worst?
In Palace Night Club in Sandoval, Ill.
Ray & I going to Ky. Cause someone told us you could buy license & marry immediately. Ray was just home from the War. Wasn't true so we had to come back to Salem & go the slower route. Best thing - financial.
Worst thing - Lack of freedom to be alone. Having to Cook. Having to tell some one where you're going & when you'll be back!

What's the best thing ever to happen to you? The worst?
Best - When I made the trip to Australia & on the way back spent 2 days in Hawaii.

The Worst - July 3, 1968 - Dropped a 38 Special gun & shot myself in the leg.

Can you tell me about your first kiss? I was a Senior in High School in Sandoval, Ill. Joe Neistroy came to house to see me. We sat in his car before he left & he kissed me. Such a thrill. I still remember how I felt. I was 16.

Your first date? Leonard Winters. Same age. We went to a Movie in Sandoval, Il. then walked around in snow afterward holding hands - & a few kisses. Another thrill!

Your first "steady" boyfriend/girlfriend?
I guess Ray was my first "steady." Then after 2 mos. he went in the army for 3 years. We wrote he came home & we married.

Is your life now like you thought it would be? No.

What's the biggest difference between life today and life when you were in your teens and twenties? What has stayed the same?
Everyone is so open & forward today about Sex. Vulgar language is the norm today. "Queers" seem to be accepted today & we never knew what the word meant when I was young & it would not have been tolerated. The Same? People are still having too many kids!

What's the best advice you can give to young people today?
To girls - Get an education & learn to support yourself so you never have to depend on a man to support you.
To Boys - Never let yourself be a slave to alcohol, drugs or tobacco! and get an education!

What are your favorites?

Song? As Time Goes By + Clare De Lune

Movie? Gone With The Wind

TV Show? Dallas + Nashville Station for Music

Book? any Michner book.

Movie Star? Clark Gable
Candice Bergen

Singer? Ray Price

Color? Coral

Food? Chili Rellenos

Pastime? Playing Piano or Organ - Knitting Sewing, Reading

"Hero" or "Heroine"?
James Michner

How do you want to be remembered? as some one who was active, & was interested in doing lots of things. as a hard worker. (I hate laziness in any body.)

Now, whenever I see a hot air balloon, I always remember the day Mama died.

My brother, sister, and I were staying with her around the clock in twelve-hour shifts because she was afraid to be left alone. I was on the way to the hospital for my shift, about three hours early for my scheduled time, yet a few minutes later than I had intended because my brother had called me just before I left home.

Traffic on 161 was heavier than usual because of the Balloon Fest, but I didn't mind overmuch since I was going in so early. The slow traffic gave me the opportunity to watch the sky filled with over two dozen hot air balloons. I was almost mesmerized by the sight of all those warm, vivid colors drifting so freely and so silently across the rosy blue sky that presaged the summer sunset.

Closer to town the traffic demanded more of my attention, however, as I had to concentrate on maneuvering my car around the Balloon Fest congestion in the park adjacent to the hospital.

As I entered the hospital, my thoughts were of relating what I had seen to Mama and my sister. And I wanted to give them both a progress report on how we had been fixing, cleaning, and rearranging the livingroom in preparation for Mama's return home.

Though the door to Mama's room was closed, I walked in anyway. She was lying flat on her back, an unusual position for her because she couldn't breathe that way. Still, nothing tragic registered in my mind until the nurse grabbed me by the arm and pulled me out of the room before telling me how my mother had passed away from cardiac arrest just moments before.

Once I was by the initial shock and sense of unreality, I remembered the hot air balloons touching the clouds, and I wondered if my beloved mama's spirit had been drifting joyously free with those balloons as they escorted her with colorful pageantry to God's very doorstep. My sister was with her when she died, but maybe I witnessed her ascent into Heaven.

My favorite picture of my mother and father together shows them smiling playfully at each other as they dance in the yard outside a cabin. Mama is barefooted; Daddy has one foot bare and the other booted. They look so very happy and carefree, so young and in love. With the ravages of

Memory Essay by Edward Garich
About His Sister, Jeanne Cleveland

My earliest recollection of my sister, Jeanne, was that our family nicknamed her "Hayseed". I speculate that they called her this because she was just a little dried up slip of a thing with a head of hair that was not of good enough quality to be called straw. My early recollection of her are almost zilch because she was a recluse. She was never in the living room, kitchen, or outside, which were my main areas of wanderings. I remember catching a glimpse of her once in a while flittering from her bedroom to bathroom and back. I can not even remember her sitting down at the table for a meal, but from her physical stature, I am not even sure she ever ate. Now I realize this does not speak well of me in regards to my knowledge of my sister Jeanne. Be kind, and remember these following facts.

My sister Jeanne's sisters were three girls of demanding nature. Each vied for attention for themselves and would act outlandishly to compete for their individual stage for attention. Years later after all my sisters had left home, I was able to meet and converse with my sister, Jeanne, for the first time. In fact the first happenings of becoming acquainted with her was, I must say, because it became necessary for me to USE her. I was not a very good student mainly because I had other outside interest rather than studying and doing homework. I was taking bookkeeping in my junior year of high school, One of the projects & requirements to get my credit in bookkeeping, was to do all

My earliest recollection of my sister, Jeanne, was that our family nicknamed her "Mayaaad". I was not a very good student mainly because I had other outside interest rather than studying and doing homework. I was taking bookkeeping in my junior year of high school. One of the projects & requirements to get my credit in bookkeeping, was to do all the paper work and bookkeeping entries for a company this required considerable hours of attention and work which I had neither time nor desire to devote. Being the selfish person I am (my wife Loretta will so testify), I asked my Mother where my sister Jeanne lived, and I went knocking on her door. When she came to the door she did not resemble the thin as a rail hayseed I had glimpsed flittering from bedroom to bathroom to bedroom. She had a large protruding belly. I really was not interested enough to ask why. I found out later, she was pregnant with her first child who became Vicky. I also found out later that she was violently ill all the time she was carrying her first child. After introducing myself as her only brother that all my sisters knew a "Precious", I unloaded this vast quantity of company documents and told her I had to have it completed & turned in in six weeks. I handed her a sheet of paper with a sample of how I printed my words and numbers and told her she might had better follow that pattern so the teacher would not know I did not do it. I ACED bookkeeping! I really think I became the responsible party for making my sister Jeanne such an outstanding accountant by giving her a couple lesson in bookkeeping.

Not needing my sister for any other of my needs there were quite a few years that elapsed where she withdrew into whatever lair she hung out in. My next remembrance of her became much more involved. I was at work one day and my

When she came to the door she did not resemble the thin as a rail bayseed I had glimpsed flittering from bedroom to bathroom to bedroom. She had a large protruding belly. I really was not interested enough to ask why. I found out later, she was pregnant with her first child who became Vicky. Not needing my sister for any other of my needs there were quite a few years that elapsed where she withdrew into whatever lair she hung out in. My next remembrance of her became much more involved. I was at work one day and my father came up to me and told me to drive my mother to Oklahoma. Being a dutiful son that is what I did. I drove my mother to Tulsa, picked up my sister Jeanne and her three children. I did not get acquainted with my sister on the drive back to Salem because her three children were somewhat out-of-control and you could not hear yourself think let alone talk. I do remember thinking as I drove along -what strange children-. The oldest as I remember was a real wide-eyed girl. I do not know if it was the glasses she wore or her eyes were really two inches in diameter. The boy had the strangest habit. He would sit in his seat, rock his body forward and slam it violently backwards, slamming into the back of the seat. Jean later told me he did that because he was reverting back into her womb. She said she knew this from a book she had read concerning elephants. It said that when a circus elephant is staked out and they stand there swaying back and forth, it is because they are under stress and revert themselves back into their mothers womb. The swaying motion is from when they were being carried by their mother as she walked. She said when she carried her son, she was extremely busy at that time and went at a dead run and undoubtedly jerked him around more violently than as an elephant walks. Her youngest child, a daughter, looked just like Jeanne except had extremely large thumbs, I remember her scrunched into the corner of the car with this large thumb stuck in her face. After Jeanne had come back to Salem for a few years, she came to work at the shop as bookkeeper. I came to know my sister much better I found out that why I never did see her around the house when we were children was because she was a bookworm and would read constantly, damn near every book printed. I think she read "Gone with the Wind" several thousand times. She was quite knowledgeable on many subjects and became very opinionated as she grew into her independence. Thru the years she worked at the shop, we argued & discussed many things. I would love it when she would strike and opinion about some worldly affair and I would play the devils advocate and shred her opinion on something. After I bought the shop from my father, she worked for me for five or six years. When the oilfield business deteriorated, she could see I was struggling to meet payrolls. So she went job hunting and went to work at Wisniewski Brothers Music Store. I must say during that period we were together at the shop and she was raising three children by herself, I took it upon myself to help her in a minor role. It did not last very long because she thought I only saw black & white and was of a very critical nature. (She was right.). So one day she told me to butt out, so I did. as we both picked up company mail about the same time every day. After a couple of years, I changed my morning coffee times and we might just run across each other a couple of time a year. I guess you could call it a rather loosely knit family group.

As our mother grew older and we saw the need to visit her more frequently, we made trips together to Mena, Arkansas. By this time, Jeanne's health had started to deteriorate. Each trip was somewhat of a novel adventure. Here was a woman in a weakened condition with extreme breathing problems, whom I had conversed with infrequently over the past many years. I would drive my van down to Arkansas for her comfort because of her condition. It was extremely high for her to step in and out of. I would pick her up and help her into it and we would set forth on the trip. She would talk non stop from Salem to Mt. Ida, Ark.. Whenever we would stop for a break to eat or drink coffee, I would have to pull up to the front of the restaurant and help her slither down out of the seat. I would hold the front door of the restaurant open and she would make it to the first chair and table inside the door and could go no farther without a rest. If it happened to be a non-smoking section, after she had rested, we would make another trek to another table in the smoking section. Needless to say, her trip to a restroom was an adventure. Over the last several years, I have infrequently stopped in to visit my sister Jeanne under the pretext of updating her on news of our mother. I knew her condition was deteriorating even tho I would not admit that fact to my wife or children. I realized that I knew my sister Jeanne better than I would ever of believed possible. She died at a young age by this day's standards. She might have just been 65 in years of age but with the hours she put in until she retired, I wonder if she averaged 5 hours of sleep a day during her working career. I think her body must have been 90. But that was the way she was. She had been that way all her life. She would get interested in a book and read it around the clock if she enjoyed it. If there was a accounting problem she would stay with it like a bulldog and not let go until it was solved. Her work was her life, she loved it. Everybody has a different outlook on life and I believe my sister Jeanne had her own thoughts and desires which do not necessarily match anothers. She was definitely one who would want quality of life not quantity. I kidded her about her absorption with Kitendo or what ever you call it, but was thrilled that she had it as a whole trip, a hush would come upon the van and she would go into a quiet reclusive mode. We would visit our mother and then head back home. After we had left Mena and arrived at Mt. Ida, she would start up like on clue and talk non-stop until we arrived in Salem. YOU FIGURE IT OUT.

Over the last several years, I have infrequently stopped in to visit my sister Jeanne under the pretext of updating her on news of our mother. I knew her condition was deteriorating even tho I would not admit that fact to my wife or children. I realized that I knew my sister Jeanne better than I would ever of believed possible.? She died at a young age by this day's standards. She might have just been 65 in years of age but with the hours she put in until she retired, I wonder if she averaged 5 hours of sleep a day during her working career. I think her body must have been 90. But that was the way she was. She had been that way all her life. She would get interested in a book and read it around the clock if she enjoyed it. If there was a accounting problem she would stay with it like a bulldog and not let go until it was solved. Her work was her life, she loved it. Everybody has a different outlook on life and I believe my sister Jeanne had her own thoughts and desires which do not necessarily match another. She was definitely one who would want quality of life not quantity. I kidded her about her absorption with Kirendo or what ever you call it, but was thrilled that she had it as a challenge when her health would not let her have other outlets.

I would like to say that as I grew older and hopefully wiser, that I now appreciate what my sister accomplished under adverse conditions. She was exactly right when she told me that I only saw black and white and was blind to accepting gray. There is a hell of a lot more gray out there than anything else. Black and White are for idealists and there is not anything in this world ideal.

I always knew how much she had accomplished in her career, but it is a damn shame that I did not realize how well she had raised three children until she became ill and passed away. I witnessed her three children giving their love, attention, and care for her thru her illness. And saw how caring they were for each other after her death. They would not know but at one time I use to advise their mother to quit being so damn easy on them and make them tow the mark. I was very critical of the way she raised them. That is the time that she told me to butt out.

She was always letting them open Christmas presents weeks before Christmas because she could not make them wait. She was a softie in so many ways.

If I could just have a chance to tell her how wonderful I challenge when her health would not let her have other outlets.

* PERSONAL QUESTIONNAIRE *

Your name L Jeanne Cleveland

Written in 1990
Mama died 20 Aug 1993. Additional comments provided by her daughter, Vikki, 13 Nov 1993.

ABOUT YOUR PARENTS

Do you remember any stories about how your parents met and subsequently got married?

Dont remember how they met. I think they were both reared in Sam area & knew each other as children - married on front porch of a home still standing. She left some guy standing at the alter before she married P.J.

What kind of person was your mother? What special skills did she have? Did she have a job other than housewife/mother? Can you tell me a story that will characterize her? What is your most special memory of her?

Fanatic about cleanliness & health conscious. Good at sewing & all kinds of fancy work. Played a tune called "Telephone Girl" by ear on the Piano. When it was time for Daddy to come home she spread newspapers on all furniture he might sit on & on floor where he might walk due to oil on his clothes & shoes.

What kind of person was your father? What special skills did he have? What job(s) did he have? Can you tell me a story that will characterize him? What is your most special memory of him?

Excellent welder & machinist. Extremely honest. Very prejudiced & strait-laced attitude about women. He never talked to any of us much. Worked extremely long hours. Told me he was proud of me the last time I saw him before his death. He had never said anything like that to me before

Using the same questions given above, tell me what you remember about your grandparents.

Can't remembe grandparents on mothers side too well. as Grandpa Gauch - Grandma Gauch was a big dignified woman, Good Cook. Loved going to the show. Salem had three theatres & she would go to all three in one day a lot of the time.

Can you think of any stories you heard about any of your ancestors that were particularly interesting or colorful?

Outside of a great grandfather that was found floating on a river - none

Are there any family heirlooms, property, or traditions that came down to you through your parents or grandparents? Where are they now?

None

Since Mama filled this out (in 1990), we acquired the "Thing on the Dresser," an old planter pot that doubled as a "catch-all" on the dresser of Mama's parents. It was a memorable item to Mama, and she used a little gentle persuasion, manipulation, and subterfuge to acquire it!

ABOUT YOU

What is your earliest memory?

A boyfriend named TC Hunter in Gladwater Texas that I was crazy about. Stayed overnight at his house & his mother bought me a stone kite.

Do you remember any stories told about you when you were a baby? Not as a baby - was teased by the song Liza Jane & made miserable by the teasing when I was small.

How were you disciplined when you acted up or did something wrong?

Mother screamed a lot & threatened daddy & to stomp a mud hole in all of us. She probably did spank me but don't remember any. Daddy never punished me at all. I was so scared of him I was an angel around him.

Describe the house you grew up in. Did you have your own room?

Didn't have my own room until I was in high school - moved so much that only remember the house on So. Broadway that we had while I was in high school.

Can you tell me about your first kiss?

Can't remember

Your first date?

Can't remember

Your first "steady" boyfriend / girlfriend?

Can't remember

Is your life now like you thought it would be?

No

What's the biggest difference between life today and life when you were in your teens and twenties? What has stayed the same?

Morals don't exist now. People more materialistic now - No pride in self, family & country as it used to ~~be~~ be

What's the best advice you can give to young people today?

Develope Determination & self pride

What are your favorites?

How do you want to be remembered? Dont Care

Mama would probably be surprised that so many people continue to carry so many wonderful memories of her in their hearts. For someone so unassuming and border-line reclusive, she managed to touch so many lives in so many special ways.

Tell me something about your first school experiences... about junior high, too... and high school.

The usual - Played a fortune teller at a Halloween School party when we lived in Sandoval

Dear Vikki,

Your letter to Frank Garich (2444 Hennetta ave, Akron Ohio 44320) has come to me via his wife. Frank was my brother. He passed away in 1973.

I am enclosing a letter from my cousin and other information regarding our family. She lives in Belgrade and is the daughter of my fathers sister, Sterka. I am not sure we connect. I would be thrilled if we could establish some relation.

My father (Ignatz) Garich arrived in America May 10, 1907 under the name of Ignac Garic on the S.S. Princess Alice from Bremen Germany.

He was born in Pozega Yugoslavia on 7/17/78. His last address before immigrating to America was Kostavica, Yugoslavia. He always said he was from Austria which later became part of Yugoslavia.

He was the oldest of 4 brothers and one sister (see attached). On becoming an American citizen he was known as Frank Garich.

Per attached part of family tree indicates our name at one time was Garich de Brestovac but finally is Garich. My grandfather was Isidor Garich.

I will attach a list of my fathers family. I believe you have explored your family tree more in depth than I have. You have given me cause to inquire more into mine. As far as I know my father, his brothers were the first in our family to come to America

I appreciate your inquiry and perhaps somewhere we will find a clue. I suspect that somewhere we have a tie also to Germany.

Should I encounter any information that would be of interest to you I will forward — please do the same

Dear Ms Cleveland,

On June 26 you sent a letter to my brother Pete in Beavercreek, Ohio requesting information on the Garich family - it was forwarded to me. Even though I see no connection, I am forwarding the family information I have at this time.

The first five copies (beginning with letter dated Oct. 11th 1972 and ending with DEAR WILLA RUTH: are of the family decended from Joseph then Charles on the family tree (second page of that grouping). I'm sure this is not up-to-date - there have been divorces and births and deaths that I have not recorded (Gordon born February 21, 1933 and his parents Charles and Doris are all deceased since I did this).

Our immediate family (Pete and I) is headed page 8. Katarina Rosina is my grandmother (maiden name Greiner). I know there are marriages and children under Robert Edward b. 9/22/42) and probably divorces. from Peter William on I can vouch for that's us.

I'm not sure whether any of this will help you or not, but I thought I'd pass it on. If you need any more information or another connection, we have a Garich reunion coming up Labor Day weekend so I could get some addresses. I'm also going to try to bring all of this up to date then.

I've enclosed my business card - my home address is on the right. We also have a fax at work 614-453-0714 if you'd care to contact me that way.

Good hunting!

Dear Dorothy,

Already several months have passed since we received your letter, which gave us a lot of pleasure,too. Please excuse for the delay with our answer but we neede-d time to procure all the details and the post cards from the native town of your father. This town is situated in Croatia and its name is Slavonska Pozega (shortly people say Pozega only This is a very nice place surrounded with mountains and hill woods and vineyards. From this post cards you won't be able to see all this but if I succeed to procure some others, better some more, I shall send them with explanations. I am also tied to this place regarding my youth days, there I went very often in olden days for my vacation and stayed with our aunt who had there a very nice house and property . To)day only her duaghter is living and one of our cousins which represents our family actually. It is true that our grand-father had a flour mill and there my mother with her four brothers spent her childhood. And even to-day she is very tied to these remembrances and she likes to speak about them. The Garich's were noblemen in the XVIII the century and there name was in fact Garich de Brestovac, but our grand-grand father Gasha Garich renounced to this nobility in 1848 (You will get a special list of the family tree).

It is true that Jacks'mother and Jack's sister were dead a long time ago.

We are very pleased to see how interested your are in our ancestors and members of our family - we are also very n interested to know about all of you there and we would also be very grateful to you if you would write more detailed about them there as you sometimes touched this questions.

We are glad to hear that Sam is better now because we were worrying about him a lot.

As for my retirement I am again in the scholl teachigg, I hope to retire in a year's time from now on.

The Autumn this year is very cold and rainy and we fear that this winter will be a very severe one.

I have to finish by now, ~~and~~ but when you have time please write again about everything.

Kondest regards to all of your family and lots of love to you

your aunt Stake and Adp

Cagle Family History

Leonhart Kegel, a German immigrant, arrived at the port of Philadelphia, PA, in 1732. According to the ship's passenger lists, Leonhart was forty-eight years old at the time of his arrival. He is believed to be the ancestor of thousands of Cagle families in the United states.

Family tradition suggests that Leonhart left his home in the Rhenish Palatinate (in the southwestern part of what was West Germany) in the early part of the Eighteenth Century. He sailed down the Rhine River to Holland, where he joined thousands of other Germans, who had been displaced by war and economic hardship and who were awaiting passage to the American colonies. Although his stay in Holland is said to have been lengthy, he eventually booked passage to America in the summer of 1732 on the ship LOYAL JUDITH. This ship was British-owned and stopped first at the port of Cowes, England, before sailing for American, arriving there at the port of Philadelphia on 25 September 1732. The passenger lists indicate that 119 Palatine men and their wives and children arrived on the LOYAL JUDITH. Because the Rhenish Palatinate was chiefly protestant in religion, it is believed that most of the passengers were Lutherans and Mennonites.

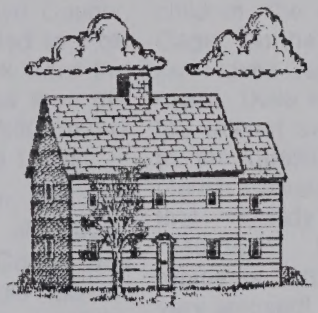
Upon arriving in Pennsylvania, Leonhart Kegel settled in what was originally Philadelphia County, probably in the northern portion which in 1784 became Montgomery County when Philadelphia County was divided. There in 1737 Leonhart acquired his first farm.

Because most of the colony of Pennsylvania was still under the control of the Indians in the 1730s, European settlers occupied only a small area near Philadelphia in the southeastern corner of the colony. By 1750, however, as the frontier was gradually expanding westward, Leonhart moved to a new farm in Lancaster County, in that portion which was to become Berks County in 1752 when Lancaster County was divided. His land lay in Brecknock Township in a hilly region on the headwaters of the Conestoga River overlooking the Mennonite and Amish settlements on the Lancaster Plain below.

The Kegel family, however, did not remain long in southeast Pennsylvania, for by 1755 their names did not appear on the annual Tax List of Berks County--a deletion that suggests the family had moved away from the area. The best genealogical guess is that sometime during the period of 1754-1755, they moved southward into the colony of North Carolina, joining the great migration of Germans and Scotch-Irish from southeast Pennsylvania to new lands in western Maryland, the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia, and the Piedmont of the Carolinas. According to family tradition, the Kegels migrated to

North Carolina in a wagon train led by Moravian Brethren, the German-speaking religious group that founded Bethlehem and Lititz, PA, and Bethania, Bethabara, and Old Salem, NC.

After arriving in North Carolina, the Kegel family (with their name now anglicized to "Cagle") lived for a brief period of time on the upper Deep River. The precise location of their home has yet to be determined but is believed to have been a few miles to the east of the Moravian settlement which lay in what is now Forsyth County, perhaps near the modern town of Greensboro in present Milford County. At that early date, however, the entire region was still part of old Rowan County, an immense county which covered the entire northwestern quarter of the state. Consequently, the earliest Cagle records in North Carolina are found in old Rowan County.



In old Rowan County, on the headwaters of the Deep River, in April of 1755, Jacob Cagle was born, perhaps the first Cagle child to be born in the South. Jacob himself provided his birthdate and birthplace in an autobiographical statement in his Revolutionary War Pension Application filed from Warren County, Tennessee in 1834, eleven years before his death.

By 1764 the Cagles had moved again, this time further downstream on the Deep River into Cumberland County, NC, where they located in the extreme northwest corner of the county in that portion which in 1784 was to become Moore County when Cumberland was divided. In fact, Moore County, NC, might be considered the ancestral home of all the Cagles in the South since it was from there, beginning in the 1790s, their various branches spread into Georgia and Tennessee, and later across the whole South, into the Midwest, and all the way to the West Coast by the year 1850.

Exactly when and where Leonhart Kegel died has not been precisely determined. Possibly he is buried on or near his old homestead in Berks County, PA. More probably, however, the aged pioneer, who would have been around seventy years old when his family moved from Pennsylvania to North Carolina, is buried somewhere along the Deep River in North Carolina.

Though there is no complete documentary proof, younger Cagles who purchased land in Cumberland (presently Moore) County, NC, in the 1760s were among the sons of Leonhart Kegel. These men, who were probably born in the 1720s and 1730s, included David Cagle (who died in the 1780s), John "Dutchman" Cagle (who died in 1799), and Henry Cagle, Sr. (who died in 1802).

Using twenty-five years as the generational average, Leonhart Kegel was probably the great-grandfather of the Leonard Cagle who was born c1780 in North Carolina and who was the first documented ancestor of our Delia Cagle Garich. The line from Delia back to Leonard has been verified through census records. However, the line from Leonard back to Leonhart is "educated speculation."

In 1850, Leonard Cagle, a wagon maker, was living in Chattooga County, GA. He had been married twice. By his first wife, identity unknown, he had at least four sons: Jacob Cagle, Joseph Cagle, John Fullbright Cagle, and Benjamin Cagle. Joseph was the great-grandfather of Delia Cagle Garich.

By his second wife, Nancy, Leonard had at least two children: a daughter, Mary Cagle, and a son, Francis M. Cagle. Nancy was illiterate. By the time of the 1880 census, she was living in Madison County, AL, in the household of her son, Francis M. Cagle, 34.

Leonard's son Joseph Cagle was born 22 January 1808 in North Carolina. A farmer and mechanic, he lived in Floyd County, GA, in 1850. In 1854 he moved to Polk County, AR, to Carter's Creek near the town of Old Dallas, which was then the county seat. He served as Polk County Treasurer during the 1850s and 1860s.

Joseph and his wife, Elizabeth, had eleven children, the youngest of whom, Leonard G. Pinkney "Pink" Cagle, was the grandfather of Delia Cagle Garich. Ironically, Pink and his wife, Lucinda, appear on the same 1920 census page as Edward Joseph Garich and his son, P.J. Garich, who would become--respectively--the father-in-law and husband of Delia Cagle Garich.

The other children of Joseph and Elizabeth Cagle were Nancy Cagle, John F. Cagle, Elijah Cagle, Adaline Cagle, David Cagle, Thomas J. Cagle, Joseph(us) S. Cagle, S. Mary Cagle, L. Judson Cagle, and Benjamin F. Cagle. David was a laborer in Polk County, AR. Thomas died in the Civil War. Joseph, whose name was sometimes listed as Josephus, was in Yell County, AR, in 1870. Mary is listed on census records as an "idiot from birth." Benjamin was in Coryell, TX, in 1880.

Leonard G. Pinkney "Pink" Cagle was born 23 Oct 1856 in Arkansas. On 22 Sep c1877, he married Lucinda Shadrick Francis Williams. A grist miller and broom maker, Pink is listed on the 1900 and 1920 census records in Polk County, AR.

Pink and Lucinda had seven children. Their oldest, Walter Cagle, was the father of Delia Cagle Garich. The other children of Pink and Lucinda were Viola Cagle, Bunyan Cagle, Jeff Cagle, Elizabeth Cagle, Earl Cagle, and Dennis Cagle.

Walter Cagle, a blacksmith and casket maker, was born 9 Dec 1878. He and his wife, Joann Harrelson Cagle, had ten children, the oldest of whom was Delia Cagle. On the 1910 census, Delia is listed as "Fidelia Cagle." When asked about this name, Delia would always become agitated without ever giving a direct response to the question. Her daughter, Jeanne Garich Cleveland, remembered, however, that "Daddy" would sometimes call "Mother" "Fido" in more playful moments...although Delia never seemed very amused!

The other children of Walter and Joann were Dona Cagle, Virgil Cagle, Wilburn Cagle, Ferrel Cagle, Ruby Cagle, Helen Cagle, Clara Cagle, Mamie Cagle, and Pauline Cagle.

On 23 May 1923 in Cherry Hill, AR, Delia Cagle married Percy Joseph "P.J." Garich. Delia and P.J. had five children, four of them still living in 1992. (See Garich history.)

Dear Vikki,

Happy to tell you your Joseph Cagle was the son of Jacob Cagle born 1766. He lived in Moore Co., N.C.

Jacob Cagle was the oldest known son of John Cagle who came from Penna between 1750-1753 and settled on Killian's Creek.

John Cagle was known as "Hutchman" and later moved eastward and settled in Cumberland Co. N.C. at the forks of Cabin and Bear Creeks. He was on tax lists there in 1767 and 1777.

He probably had a son John as well as Jacob.

He was sent to Penna in 1770 to collect in the will of Andrew Felsinger, wife Anna Margaretha, whose daughter Dorothea Elizabeth was married to John Henry Seitz. Seitz's daughter Catherine married my ancestor, 3rd great grandfather Henry Cagle born 1730's died 1802 in Moore Co.

Forgot to say Killian's Creek is in present day Lincoln Co., N.C.

Some people have tried to make John "Hutchman" Cagle my Henry's father but it is more likely they were brothers and sons of Leonard Cagle who came to America in 1732 on the "Loyal Judith" and lived in Berks Co., Pa.

John Cagle left a will in 1799 in which son John received his plantation at Bear and Cabin Creeks.

There is so much on the Cagles that I cannot begin to write about them all other than outline some on your line.

John H. Cagle, P.O. Box 5342 - Little Rock, Ark. 72215 has published 3 books and has a monthly "Cagle Journal" at $12.00 a year. I have all 3 and subscribe to the Journal.

The first book "The Cagle Family of the South, To 1850" has 660 pages and includes intermarried families.

There were 6 Cagles in old Cumberland Co. N.C. between 1764 and 1773. At least four of them were young men, Henry, Charles, Leonard, and George. Three of these men having sons born 1762 to 1770. My Henry's oldest son William was born ca 1759 which eliminates him, probably, as a son of John as he was probably born in 1730's or 40's too old.

Recently I've found that I am probably also descended from William and wife Mary Barrett as well as William's sister Mary who married Andrew Ormon (Orman) Andrew and Mary's son Henry Orman married first cousin Nancy Cagle.

Anyway John Cagle's will names wife as Catherine, sons John, William, Jacob, George and Henry daughters Susanna, Dorothy, Margaret, Faith, Elizabeth Gilmore and Mary Melton.

Jacob's descendants were in Habersham, Hall and Cherokee Co., Ga. He is in Habersham Co. 1820 and Hall Co. 1830-1840-1850 age 80 in 1850. He was perhaps father of John and William born 1790's George born 1795-1794 Jacob b. 1805 Joseph b 1808

A David Cagle recorded land in Cumberland Co. N.C but was on tax lists of 1760's in old Rowan Co. Who was the son of Leonard Cagle who came in 1732 from Rotterdam, Holland to Philadelphia arriving in September. Leonhart Kegel age 48 Sons apparently David, John "Dutchman" and Henry, Sr. (mine)

A baptismal record for David has been found from 1728. Johan Theobald Kegel son of Leonhard and Susanna Kegel of Obermeckenger Germany from Mormon Library which obtained new additions including the Kirchenbuch (Church Record Book) from German Reformed Church at Sembach, Germany, a town located a few miles N.E. of Kaiserslautern, in the Rheinland-Pfalz region of S.W. Germany. The Kirchenbuch shows the Church at Sembach served a number of smaller communities in the area including Obermeckenger.

In addition to baptism of Johan Theobald was confirmation of a daughter of Leonhard in 1729

The Protestant (Evangelische) Church in Seybach had two congregations, sharing a building but with two different pastors. The German Reformed Church Record Book beginning in 1721. Lutheran Book in 1776-80 any Kegel records prior to 1776 if recorded by a Lutheran pastor no longer exist.

Confirmation Register - 1729

Maria Margreta, the daughter of Leonhard Kegel, Reformed, and his deceased wife Maria Elisabeth, Reformed of Obermehlingen. 14 years old.

The towns of Alsenbergen and Trippstadt were located a few miles from Obermehlingen.

Other records show Theobald Fuchs, the sponsor was Johan Theobald Fuchs; thus it would appear that Johan Theobald Kegel was named for the godfather, was common practice in that era. Johann Andreas Busch was born in 1699 in Trippstadt, son of Hans and Maria Margretta Busch. Neither the Kegels were related to these families in some way, or were merely friends, is unknown at present.

That Theobald Fucks and Andreas Busch both had first name Johan points to a characteristic of the German naming system. They commonly gave their children a first name taken from a Bible character or a saint of the Church (i.e. Johan for boys, Maria for girls, etc.) but the middle name would be the given name by which the child would be called in everyday life. Thus it was not uncommon to find families in which all sons bore the same first name, such as Johan, and all girls the same first name, such as Maria or Anna. So Johan Theobald Vogel would not appear as Johan in later records but as Theobald. If a son was to be called John he'd be given the name Johannes rather than Johan.

The name Theobald is the equivalent of David. Though the name David itself is found in German records, it is often found in the form Theobald, which is a Greek form of the name. Better educated Germans of that era often preferred names which appeared in Latin or Greek forms, since those languages were considered marks of good education. Thus, the Greek Theobald is commonly found, as well as Latinized names such as Augustus (August), Henricus (Henrich) etc. In daily speech Theobald was often shortened to Dewalt very common among Germans in America such as Theobald "Dewalt" Baum a neighbor of Leonhard Kegel in Berks Co., Pa. in 1730's and 1740's and Theobald "Dewalt" Hunsucker, a neighbor of Cagles in Lincoln Co. N.C. in a later generation. So Johan Theobald Kegel came with his parents to Pa. in 1732 and was the Dewalt ~~Kegel~~ Cagle in Lancaster Co., Pa. records in 1752 and appeared in North Carolina records as David Cagle.

Apparently Susannah was Leonhard Kegel's second wife probably younger than he as he probably had children younger than Johan Theobald perhaps some born after their arrival in America. So Cagles in Moore Co. N.C. 1760's and later could have been sons not grandsons.

Send this as I feel it is important.

Feel free to write again. I will answer more promptly next time. We were away.

Sincerely

Ed Merryman

Origin of the FINE Line

Sailing in the Pacific Ocean near the Western Samoa Islands, Captain Dell, commander of a trade ship out of San Francisco, found and rescued a small baby boy floating atop a wooden door in the ocean. The captain guessed the boy to be about three months old and probably from the nearest island, Nacoma. Captain Dell inquired of the village people about the boy's parents and origin, but no one seemed to know. Being childless himself, the captain took the child aboard his ship and raised him as his own son.

The boy was given the name Nacoma Dell Fine by his adoptive father: Nacoma since the baby was thought to be from there, Dell from his new father, and Fine because the boy was a "fine" young sailor.

When Nacoma was about eighteen, he met a beautiful Indian girl in a San Francisco port. He left his childhood home on the ship and married the girl, thus beginning his life as an American. The couple had a daughter, Shrelda Minerva Fine, in 1852. The family of three moved to Texas, where Shrelda grew up and married Sam Bingham Harrelson. Sam and Shrelda's first-born child, a daughter, was born May 12, 1887. The girl was named Joann.

When Joann was in her early teens, the family moved to Arkansas.

Krouliks in Kansas

The family name KROULIK and its variations is of Czechoslovakian (Prussian) derivation, coming from the Czech word kralik, meaning rabbit. (The original Prussians were Western Balts. They were not Teutons. The Germans came later.)

Recorded as early as the Eleventh Century during the Dark Ages, the family name probably described a quality or characteristic by which an early Kroulik ancestor was identified. Several early spellings are found in documents showing fines and tax assessments: KROULIK, KROLLIK, KRAULIK, KRALIK, KRALICH, and the variant KROLIKOWSKI. Fourteenth Century records indicate that the name had, by then, become a hereditary surname.

As the name was evolving, the Crusades had begun. Possibly Kroulik ancestors were among these pilgrims. Perhaps success in the Crusades earned a certain prominence for Krouliks, whose ancestral beginnings were humble. A coat of arms was granted to the family and later confirmed in official heraldic records.

Actually there are two Kroulik coats of arms on record. One is described as "Gules a grand heraldic rose argent, barbed vert, seeded or." In heraldic language, gules means red, a color which symbolized fortitude and the ability to withstand the ancient test of fire and torture. Considered the most noble of all the colors, gules is considered a royal color that denotes martial prowess, boldness, hardihood, valor, and magnanimity. Rose argent, barbed vert, seeded or translates to a silver rose with green thorns and golden seeds. The rose alludes to good surrounded by evil, as the rose is surrounded by thorns. Some heralds connect the rose to the church in a time when the Popes customarily presented their "favorites" with flowers either real or sculpted of precious metals. Consequently, a silver rose would imply purity, innocence, truth, justice, chastity, and humility in the person receiving it. Although heraldic roses are frequently shown with green thorns, the color green is actually quite rare in arms. It signifies youth, vitality, and courage on the battlefield. Because it is a color of nature, it may also represent fruitfulness and growth. Or, meaning gold, is purer, finer, and more valuable than any other metal. Actually there are two Kroulik coats of arms on record. One is described as "Gules a grand heraldic rose argent, barbed, vert, seeded or." Considered the most noble of all the colors, gules is considered a royal color that denotes martial prowess, boldness, hardihood, valor, and magnanimity. Rose argent, barbed vert, seeded or translates to a silver rose with green thorns and golden seeds. This rose alludes to good surrounded by evil, as the rose is surrounded by thorns. Consequently, its bearer should be better than all others in his work, his virtue, and his capabilities. Or is also said to be the emblem of a bearer who is wise, rich, and intelligent.

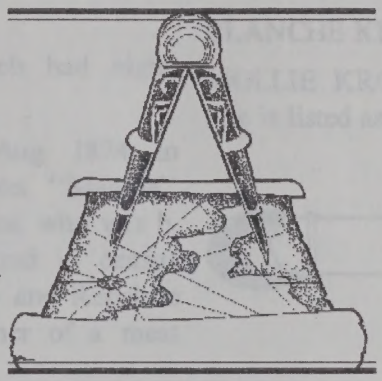
The other Kroulik coat of arms is described as "Quartered: 1st, or; the letter "K" sable; 2nd and 3rd quarters gules, a peacock in pride proper; 4th or; 2 bendlets sable; charged with small inner shield vert." What this description means is that the shield is divided into quarters, two of which have a gold background and two of which have a red background. A black "K" appears on one of the gold quarters; two narrow, black, diagonal bands appear on the other gold quarter. On the red quarters are peacocks with their tails fully expanded. A small green inner shield is placed over the four quarters. The peacocks symbolize personal pride. During the days of chivalry, one of the most solemn oaths was taken "on the peacock." The black bands or "bendlets" are marks of distinction which were added to further ennoble a paternal shield. They were awarded for acts of valor in battle or for public service.



Apparently two separate Kroulik families immigrated to the United States. One line settled first in Minnesota and North Dakota while our Krouliks settled in Kansas. Because of the uniqueness of the name, however, and because these immigrants generally came from the same geographic region of Czechoslovakia, a natural assumption is that the two lines are related.

Of the Kansas Krouliks, Anton A. Kroulik is the earliest on record. Both of his parents were born in Bohemia, Czechoslovakia, but to date their names have not been discovered.

Anton was born 21 Aug 1854 in Zhor, Landskroun, Chrudim (County), Bohemia (Czechoslovakia). After coming to America in 1888 when he was thirty-four years old, he was a farmer in Republic County, KS, where he farmed an eighty-acre farm in the southwest section of Farmington Township. Around 1904 he became a naturalized United States citizen. He died 6 Aug 1933, probably in Republic County.

His wife, Anna Cejnar Kroulik, was born 13 Jun 1857 in Bohemia to Bohemian parents. She and Anton were married 22 Feb 1876, probably in Bohemia. She, too, was naturalized in 1904. Five of their ten children were born in Bohemia, and five were born in Kansas.

Our ancestor, Anna Camelia Kroulik, was--apparently--the third child of Anton and Anna. She was born 21 Jan 1877 in Bohemia and died 22 Jul 1964 in Salem, IL. She was married twice. The surname of her first husband was SCHOEDR, or something with a similar spelling. (Records were difficult to read.) By Mr. Schoedr, she had three children, only one of whom--Albert--was living in 1910. Anna's second husband was Edward Joseph Garich, whom she married 15 Mar 1902. Family tradition maintains that they were married in Severy, KS; however, a marriage record for them in that location remains elusive. Around 1908 Edward and Anna moved to Polk County, AR, where they owned and operated a grocery store. Supposedly there was disapproval among Anna's family because Edward was several years older than she and had several grown children by a previous marriage. Eventually Edward and Anna had three children together: Percy Joseph "P.J." Garich, Clara Garich Van Horn, and Roy Garich.

Anna Camelia Kroulik Garich had eight, possibly nine siblings:

CHARLES KROULIK, b. Aug 1874 in Bohemia/m. c1908 to Margaret "Maggie" --?--/at least one child, Laurence, who was b. c1914 in KS. Charles appeared in census records in Washington County and Republic County, KS, as both the owner of a meat market and a farmer.

KAMILIK KROULIK (female), b. 1875-76 in Bohemia. This name appeared on census records. Possibly KAMILIK was the Bohemian form of CAMELIA and referred to Anna Camelia Kroulik.

EDWARD W. KROULIK, b. Oct 1883 in Bohemia. In 1910 he was a hired hand for D.D. Snyder in Washington County, KS, but lived with an uncle, Isador Gross, also in Washington County. By 1920 he was living back home with his parents in Farmington Twp., working the home farm. In 1920 he was unmarried.

MILLIE KROULIK, b. Sep 1885 in Bohemia. In 1910 she was a servant for the Calvin J. Morrow family in Washington County, KS. By 1920 she was back home, living with her parents and working the home farm. In 1920 she was unmarried.

ANTON "TONY" KROULIK, b. Jul 1889 in KS. He was a farmer and married a girl named Albena --?--.

AGNES KROULIK, b. Jul 1891 in KS.

BEASIR "BESSIE" KROULIK, b. Aug 1895 in KS.

BLANCHE KROULIK, b. Feb 1898 in KS.

MOLLIE KROULIK, b. May 1900 in KS. She is listed as OLLIE on the 1900 census.

The Kroulik Family name is classified as a nick-name or descriptive of a quality or characteristic by which one of your ancestors was more readily identified. It was at first recorded as early as the 11th century, the Dark Ages.

Several early spellings are found in documents showing fines and tax assessments. By the 14th century, records indicate that this name had become a hereditary surname. Changing over the past 700 years it has mutated to its present form.

At the time when your name was evolving, the Crusades had begun and it can be assumed that your ancestors were among these pilgrims.

Centuries ago, after the original families had emerged from a humble beginning to prominence, a Coat of Arms was granted and later confirmed in official heraldic records... another tribute to the name

Kroulik

This historiography was prepared individually for the Kroulik surname on March 8, 1974 at the request of

Mr. John T. Kroulik
21 Pinedale
Apt. 6
Houston, Texas 77006

The coat of arms illustrated left was drawn by a heraldic artist based upon information about the Kroulik surname and its association with heraldry. In the language of the ancient heralds, the arms are described as follows:

> "Quartered: 1st, or; the letter "K" sa.; 2nd and 3rd, gu.; a peacock in pride ppr.; 4th, or; 2 bendlets sa. Charged with a small inner shield vert."

The Kroulik arms is translated:

> Divided into quarters: 1st quarter, gold background; a black initial "K", 2nd and 3rd quarters, red background; a peacock proper, tail expanded; 4th quarter, gold; 2 narrow black left diag. bands. A small green inner shield placed over all.

A peacock is symbolic of vanity, beauty and pride. Seven vivid colors were chosen for use on shields of armor clad knights to easily identify them at a distance. The heraldic colors gold, silver, purple, blue, green, black, and red were preserved on colorless drawings by dot and line symbols. The Kroulik coat of arms incorporated green. The color green represents hope, vitality, plenty.

Information available indicates that in 1972 there were less than 99 households in the U. S. with the old and distinguished Kroulik name. In comparison, some family names represent over 400,000 households in the United States.

This report does not represent individual lineage of the Kroulik family tree and no genealogical representation is intended or implied.

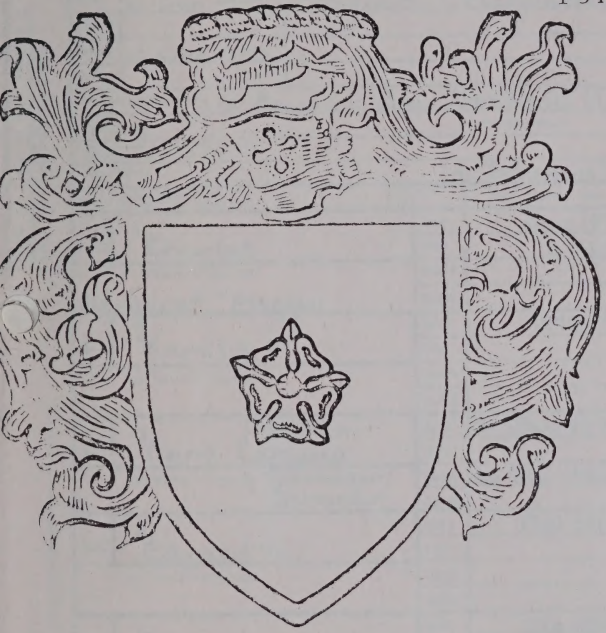
BEARERS of this distinguished surname can take pride in those ancestors responsible for its emergence. Documents of the Medieval Age carried the name in its original form... a simple word of identification before it solidified into its present form and spelling. The antiquity of the name is exemplified by the record of the Coat of Arms issued long ago and recorded in the reference: PLANCHES DE L'ARMORIAL by J.B. RIETSTAP. Published in 1884 in Europe. The Coat of Arms was drawn by an heraldic artist from this information officially recorded in this reference and includes the heraldic wording.

F548



KROULIK, KROLLIK, KRALIK, KRALICH
Variant: KROLIKOWSKI
National Origin: Czechoslovakia, Prussia
The name is from the Czech word 'kralik' meaning a rabbit.

ARMS: "Gules a grand heraldic rose argent, barbed vert, seeded or".

Reference Source: Plate CCCLIII, Rietstap

The original Prussians were Western Balts. They were not Teutons. The Germans came later.

GOLD ...in heraldic terms "Or", this metal symbolized valor and perseverance. It is the prized metal in heraldry.

SILVER ...indicative of peace and serenity. The heraldic word for this metal is "Argent".

RED is called "Gules" and represents fortitude and the ability to withstand the ancient test of fire and torture.

BLUE or "Azure" in a coat of arms denotes loyalty and fidelity. Sometimes it is used to represent purity.

GREEN is called "Vert" in the blazon. It signifies youth and vitality...bravery on the battlefield. Because it also represents nature, it symbolized abundance and growth.

BLACK is called "Sable" and is associated with repentance and darkness. It is a fur used as a color and derives from the animal called the sable.

ERMINE is the fur of royalty found on the arms of nobility and those of higher rank. It is represented by a white shield with black ermine spots or tails. Those associated with noble lines often adopted the fur in their own shields.

Notes: Anna's granddaughter, Betty Ann Van Horn Link, remembers that Albert once visited Anna in Salem, IL. He was stockily built, had on a dark suit, and walked with a limp. Anna was a widow at this time, and was at the home of her daughter Clara (Betty Ann's mother), on Jefferson Street. Betty Ann was about 9 years old. Anna cried when Albert left, and he did not stay long. Where Albert went to then remains a mystery to this branch of the family, and no one has heard anything from him since that 1942 meeting.

A Visit to Kroulikland--September 4, 1972

The 1972 Praha telephone directory lists six people with the name Kroulik.

Mr. Šilar of Praha told me that he knows Bohumil Kroulik who used to live in Děčín, and that he is a high-caliber type of person.

When on Sunday, September 3, 1972, I attended services in the 1836-built Protestant church in Horní Čermná, the minister told me that he knew I am a Kroulik because I resemble the Krouliks in Sloupnice.

At the Šilar-Lesikar reunion in Horní Čermna the same day there was a Mrs. Vlasta Kroulik nee Dušek present. She is formerly of Sloupnice, but now lives with a son in Ústí nad Orlicí. She was visiting another son, Josef, in Horní Čermná.

Also at the reunion were the Janouseks who are related to the Lesikars and the Jezeks. She is familar with the Krouliks, Pavlíčeks, and others in the Dzbánov-Vodérady area, and she told me that they will show us around the following day when we will in that area.

In the morning, September 4 (Monday), we and František Šilar left for Litomyšl, where we stopped and I bought many picture post-cards of the city.

Then we left for the home of the Janouseks. I can't decipher the name of the community where they live, but it seems to be something like "Leč." The Janouseks, who have a nice home, cooked-up some sausage and we had to eat in the mid-morning. Many neighbors came by to look at those Americans. Then I went with the Janouseks in their car followed by the others in Kupka's car to the various communities.

First we went to the home of Otakar Kroulik at 51742 Doudleby nad Orlicí # 376, Okres Rychnov. Otakar Kroulik "looks like" a Kroulik. He is about my age (see picture). He has three daughters who I assume are married. His wife was in a hospital. His 84-year old mother--the former Miss Malakov--lives with him. She is rather senile.

We especially went to see Otakar Kroulik because the Janouseks knew that he has an extensive family history. Otakar, a Roman Catholic. brought out his family records together with a family coat-of-arms. He brought out a picture of the palace-like building where he used to live. I naturally assume that he must be of a different branch of Krouliks and not of our poor peasant branch. Reviewing his history, we could not find any "common" of mutual ancestors. I gave him my address and some money, and he promised to send some of his family history to me. František Šilar also plans to contact him again in connection with the family history. Otakar read several of his poems (original) most of which dealt with the large estate where he lived and owned it before the Communists took everything and threw him out.

Milic Janousek
Seč

okres Ústí nad Orlici

The front of the building originally had some quotations from the Bible instead of a coat-of-arms. (See the original or rather old picture of the building received at a later date from Otakar Kroulik.)

Otakar Kroulik knew of the bacteriologist Alois Kroulik about whom I had written before. Alois, a brilliant man, was not related to Otakar. Alois fell a few years ago from an electric tram and lost his life. (Alois Kroulik was world-wide known because of his pioneer work on the bacterial decomposition of cellulose.)

After parting with Otakar, we went a fairly short distance to the place where these formerly rich Krouliks used to live. The community is known as something like "Kosorin" (not spelled correctly). The building is of palace size. Now it is converted into several apartment plus some establishments. There were animals in parts of it. The family coat-of-arms was eradicated from the building. The estate consisted of 40 hectares of land. There were many other large estates in the same area.

Then on our trip we passed through Vračovice, but no Krouliks live there now.

Our next stop was Voděrady. We had little difficulty finding house # 60 where Anna Pavlíček (Mrs. František Kroulik) was born. The building, facing the street, seems to be in good condition. We did not go inside. A picture was taken, and it is hoped that it will be satisfactory.

In Voděrady we had slightly more trouble finding place # 45 where Jan Kroulik was born December 24, 1837. The building is rather large and is used as a "hostinec" or "hospoda" (inn). We did not go go inside, and I still wonder whether the Krouliks owned and lived in the entire building. Of course, Mrs. Anna Kroulik did buy land near Industry upon arriving in Texas. I understand that some Čermáks used to live at # 45, but I do not know whether it was the Jan Čermáks whose daughter Anna married Mikulaš Kroulik on June 9, 1766 (see previous history). I hope the picture will turn out O. K. There are some Vašinas and Pavliceks in the Voděrady area.

From Voděrady we went the very short distance to Džbánov. This is the place where the Krouliks "originated" (as far back as we know). We saw the location where our Krouliks used to live for over 200 years. The building burned some time ago. The Protestant church building in Džbánov also burned some years ago, but another church is standing on the same location. The Janeceks used to live in this small village of Džbánov, but none are left there.

We were told that two Krouliks live in Džbánov, Václav at place # 2 and Josef at place # 15, but that they are not related to us. Even though others were not interested, I insisted upon looking up Josef. Josef Kroulik, a short and elderly widower, seems to live in a room, and he was gathering eggs when we found him. I hope that the picture of him will be satisfactory. After talking with him, it seems that he is a descendant of the same Mikulaš Kroulik that we are. Some of his relatives went to America to avoid religious persecution. Josef Kroulik, who was born in Džbánov, has one daughter in Olomouc.

Josef Kroulik said that he and Václav Kroulik (house # 2) are not related. Since the others were so impatient, I did not insist on looking up Václav Kroulik in Dźbanov. For the same reason we did not go --to my great disappointment--to Sloupnice which has played a great part in the Kroulik history. We did see Sloupnice, which is 9 km. long, from a distance.

We parted with the Janouseks and went to Usti nad Orlici where we parted with Frantisek Silar.

Jan Vašina from Voderady house 26 and Helen. Their daughter Christyna was born Nov. 7, 1779. (I assume Krystyna was the mother of Anna Pavliček Kroulik.)

Yes, there was still another Jan or John Kroulik. Jan Kroulik of Džbanov was married on Feb. 4, 1742 to Anna, the daughter of Jan Černy from Voděrady. Both were born about 1720.

(Have you noticed what popular names Jan and Anna are?)

Another František Kroulik from Dzbanov and Anna. They were married before 1711. He died June 13, 1716 when he was about 40. His widow Anna remarried Feb. 7, 1717 to Václave (Wenceslaus) Kroulik who was the son of Martin Kroulik of Džbánov. It is believed that Václave Kroulik and František Kroulik were brothers.

Pan František Šilar goes on with a long discussion where he hopes to find many more records about the Krouliks. He states that the Krouliks were quite numerous around the year 1800 (before the PILL!).

Vikki: Start here

Now I will quote directly from the letter as translated by Mrs. Marie Hollub:

" The Krouliks were Protestants. They belonged to the Evangelical Assembly in Sloupnice that was organized in the year 1782 after the TOLERANTION DECREE was issued by the Emperor Joseph II. This DECREE assured at least the minimum freedom to the persecuted Protestants. Our Protestant fore-fathers were persecuted from the year 1621 (Remember the Battle of Bila Hora or White Mountain in 1620?) until the year 1781--for the whole 160 years. They either had to immigrate from their native land to a foreign country or become members of the Catholic religion. There was no third choice. Most of them registered to the Catholic church and at the same time they held secret meetings for their evangelical meetings. Nevertheless, the services of christenings, weddings and burials were performed for these secret non-Catholics in the Catholic church and recorded in the books of the Catholic parsonages.

"The Catholic priests were searching for the secretly hidden Protestants with the help of their Hapsburg nobility inspectors. The secret meetings, the keeping of the concealed foreign preachers, passing and hiding the non-Catholic books--all that was persecuted by cruel punishments. In the parish of České Heřmanice the house-to-house searching were performed in the years 1722-1747. At that time the searchers confiscated 170 books which were forbidden to be read and passed on. Even some of the owners of the books were of Kroulik ancestry. They were:

" Jan Kroulik, Václave Kroulik from the Lower Sloupnice, Matěj (Mathew) Kroulik and Jan Kroulik from Vračovice.

"In the parish of Hermanice about the year 1750 about 165 persons were condemned (to sentences) by the religious court for non-Catholic thinking and acting! (Does this remind you of the Russian Reds?) Among them were Matěj and Jan Kroulik from Vračovice, Mikulaš Kroulik condemned for the second time and Václave Kroulik with his wife Rosina condemned for the third time, Jan Kroulik-- all three from Sloupnice. Anna Kroulik with her sons Jan and Mikulaš, also from Sloupnice.

"Many secret Protestants left around the year 1740 mainly to Germany for religious freedom where they founded a whole community of Rixdorf by Berlin. The little daughter of Jakub Kroulik died in Rixdorf-by-Berlin on September, 1751. I read and copied this record myself when I was there last summer (September), travelling by bus to Germany on an excursion with four Protestant groups. We followed the steps of the Czech immigrants. Even there in Rixdorf-by-Berlin is a name of Kroulik in the local records. The immigrants of Čermna and Litomyšl founded this community."

He was a member of the CMB church of Industry, of the SPJST lodge, and of the state and county medical associations. For the past 10 years he had served as president of the Industry State bank, holding that office at the time of his death. He served also as a school trustee in his district and was medical examiner on the board during the first world war. A high class gentleman, Dr. Kroulik was well liked by a wide circle of friends, and his influence for good in this county will be felt for all time to come.

Dr. John Kroulik and Terezie Dusek were married by the Rev. A. B. Koukal.

Dr. Kroulik died Friday morning, Nov. 7 at the Bellville hospital where he was a patient since suffering a severe stroke on the morning of October 30.

Dr. Kroulik was born Oct. 5, 1872 in the Schoenau community near Industry. He attended school at Industry, Wesley and at Bellville. He then went to Palestine where he served as an intern in the I & G. N. railroad hospital from June to August, 1897. In August, 1897, he purchased a home in Nelsonville and began the practice of medicine. During the following 41 years he became widely known as a highly respected and successful country doctor. In the year of 1938 he retired from active practice to live in quiet and peace in his home at Nelsonville.

On August 10, 1947, the Doctor and his wife celebrated the 50th anniversary of his residence in Nelsonville, having as their guests on this memorable occasion their near relatives and close friends.

Kroulik; a sister, Mrs. Frances Langer of Wesley; three brothers, Dr. Frank J. Kroulik of Smithville; Joe L. Kroulik of Brenham and Rudolph B. Kroulik of Shiner, and a granddaughter, Karen Kroulik of Houston.

The large concourse of sorrowing relatives and many friends who attended the services and the huge profusion of floral tributes that covered his last resting place, indicated the high esteem and respect in which Dr. Kroulik was held by all his acquaintances.

Pallbearers were Dr. Robert A. Haskarl and Dr. W. F. Haskarl of Brenham, Dr. H. E. Roensch and Dr. J. A. Neely of Bellville, Henry Boelsche of Industry, C. H. Chernosky and J. L. Frnka of Houston, H. L. Frnka of New Ulm, Walter E. Rinn of Taylor and J. F. Chupick of Fayetteville.

Dear Vikki,

I was pleased to receive your letter and know of another person interested in the Kroulik family history. You have already corresponded with John Kroulik of Houston, who has done most of the research I am aware of, and is the source of the information I will share with you in this letter. We are very familiar with the Kroulik immigrants to Texas - now we know of another line, probably related, who came to Kansas.

I have enclosed a copy of the beginnings of the Kroulik family history as I currently know it. It contains names, birth dates and places, etc. of the Texas Kroulik's ancestors, including Anna Pavlicek Kroulik with son Jan and daughter Anna who came in 1853 with other early emigrants from Bohemia to Texas. The rest of the Kroulik's in my database were born in Texas. I am not able to tie the Texas Krouliks to your Kroulik ancestors, although they likely are related.

Your ancestors include Anton A. and Anna Cejnar Kroulik. Anton was born 21 August 1854 in Zhor, Landskroun, Bohemia. Our Texas Krouliks came from the county of Litomysl which borders (west of) the Landskroun area. They were Protestants. The distance between the cities of Litomysl and Landskroun is approximately 20 kilometers. The villages of Dzbanov, Voderady and Sloupnice are almost due north of Litomysl. I was unable to locate the village of Zhor on my maps.

Our Texas Kroulik ancestor Anna emigrated after her husband died, traveling with a large group of Czechs from the Landskroun area. Their surnames were Silar (later spelled Siller, Shiller or Schiller), Lesikar, Busek, Marek, Mares, Pechacek and Ripl. A large contingent of Silar's comprised the first group migration of Czechs to Texas in 1851. Given their geographic

Dear Dixie

I was pleased to receive your letter and know of another person interested in the Kroulik family history. You have obtained correspondence with John Kroulik of Houston, who has done most of the research I am aware of, and is the source of the information I will share with you in this letter. We are very fortunate with the Kroulik immigrants to have more than one known another probable relative who come to America.

I have enclosed a copy of the beginnings of the Kroulik family history as I currently know it. It contains names, birth dates and places, etc. of the Texas Kroulik's ancestors, including Anna Faulisek Kroulik with her son and daughter who came in 1852 with other early emigrants from Bohemia to Texas. The rest of the Kroulik's in my database were born in Texas. I am not able to tie the Texas Kroulik's to your Kroulik ancestors, although they likely are related.

Your ancestors included Anton K. and Anna Langer Kroulik. Anton was born 21 August 1854 in Zhor, Landskroun, Bohemia. Our Texas Kroulik came from the county of Litomysl, which borders (west of) the Landskroun area. They were Protestants. The distance between the cities of Litomysl and Landskroun is approximately 20 kilometers. The villages of Bzenec, Hadersdy and Slopnice are almost due north of Litomysl. I was unable to locate the village of Zhor on my maps.

Our Texas Kroulik ancestor Anna emigrated after her husband died, traveling with a large group of Czechs from the Landskroun area. Their surnames were Sihr (later spelled Siller, Sihler or Schiller), Loeiker, Bunek, Marek, Mores, Pechacek and Ripl. A large contingent of Siller's comprised the first group migration of Czechs to Texas in 1851. Given their geographic proximity, one would assume that our two Kroulik families were related, and that they both knew the Silar's of Landskroun.

In 1987 John Kroulik and another Czech researcher named Albert Blaha from Houston corresponded with a Frantisek Silar of Horni Cermna, Landskroun, Cechy, who did research on the early Czech emigrants to Texas. If you are interested in doing some local research there, perhaps you could contact Mr. Silar.

I would be interested in any further information you find about the Kroulik family in Bohemia. Likewise I'll share anything else I find.

Regards,

Jim Woodrick

Dear Vikki,

I was delighted to hear from another "Kroulik" but will have to disappoint you in that we are not the immediate relatives you seek.

To my knowledge, my great grandparents, John and Anna (Miller) Kroulik, came to this part of Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota from southern Minnesota. Very little is known of them and I have not had the time or funds to do the work in the southern part of the state that I would like. I'm sure they are on a census record or some such record. This may not have been their (or his) first stop after immigrating.

I am inclosing the booklet done for our family reunion 2 years ago. You will notice that many branches of my family spell their name "Kraulik"

It was exciting to hear from you. Please keep in touch, even though we may not be "family". Plans for another reunion should be taking place, if you'd like, I could put you on the mailing list.

Sincerely,
Penny D. Jensen

Dear "Cousin" Vikki,

Where did you get my name and address?

I started doing genealogical work about twenty years ago. I went to Czechoslovakia in 1966 and 1972. You and I are not close relatives, but apparently we are from the xxx same stock because my ancestors also came from the area near Litomysl and Landskrun.

My great-grandfather, Frantisek Kroulik was born in Dzbanov where the Krouliks lived for many generations. Other Kroulik villages in the area are Voderady, Sloupnice, Netrbi, Vracovice. Frantisek Kroulik married Anna Pavlicek from the adjoining village of Voderady. My grandfather , Jan Kroulik, was born in Voderady. My grandfather, Jan Kroulik, had one sister, Anna Kroulik, who married Václav Janecek.

Frantisek Kroulik, my great-grandfather, died in Europe in 1850.

In 1853 my xxxx great-grandmother, Mrs. Frantisek Kroulik nee Anna Pavlicek, her father, my grandfather, Jan Kroulik, and Vaclav and Anna (Kroulik) Janecek left Europe for Texas on the bark SUWA They disembarked in Galveston on Monday, Dec. 26., 1853. John Janecek was born on board the SUWA somewhere onthe ocean.

The Krouliks reached Austin County, Texas iin January, 1854 and made their home near Industry in Austin Co. I am a native of Austin County. My father, Dr. John Kroulik, was a physician at Nelsonville.

My Kroulik ancestors were Protestants who were highly persecuted by the Catholics.

My mother's people, the Lesikars and Silars,were from the Horni Cermna-Nepomuky area near Landskroun. They also came in 1853 on the SUWA.

I have a very large collection of data about my ancestors. If you plan to be in Texas soon I wish you would come by to see my records. I don't know what part to write about since I have sox much.

The Lawrence Kroulik in Denver, Co. is from the Kansas family. A mrs. Baker in Louisiana is also a descendant of some of the Kansas Krouliks. The late Stanley Kroulik of Oklahoma was buried in Kansas.

Do you know Charlies Kroulik of Berwyn, Ill? There are Krouliks in Michigan, Minnesotaa, Arizona andmost of the states west of the Miss. R. They are not my close relatives, but it seems that the ancestors of all of them came from the same general area in Europe.

Excuse all the errors. I am 83 years old and I had a cancer operation on July 20, 1993.

Sincerely,
John

Hi -

I am working on the history of Severy, Kansas and ran across The Garich Family History. I am specifically interested in information on Ed Garich, who lived in Severy. He was an early settler here. Do you happen to a photo of him you could scan and send?

I have a couple of news articles that I copied from THE SEVERYITE.

The article printed on Feb. 26, 1903 asks, "Are They Twins?"

On Friday, Feb. 20th, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Garich, living west of Severy, and on the following day, Saturday the 21st, another son was born. Ed is as happy as a father can possibly be over the generosity of the particular kindhearted storks that visited his house, but is considerably bothered as to whether the two boys are twins or not, with a days difference in their ages.

The article printed in THE SEVERYITE on Sept. 17, 1903 tells of the twins' deaths.

Johnnie and Joe, infant sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. Garich were born Feb. 21, 1903. Baby Joe died on Sept. 3, 1903, aged 6 months and 12 days. Funeral services were conduted at the residence on Friday by Rev. Cullison of Severy. Baby Johnnie died Sept. 11, 1903, aged 6 months and 20 days. Funeral services were conducted at the residence on Saturday by Rev. Bixby of Severy. Both remains were interred in Twin Groves Cemetery.

Any information you have about Ed and his family would be appreciated - as well as a photo, if you have one to scan and send. Thanks. Marcia Moore maillady@sktc.net

Miss Me-
But Let Me Go

When I come to the end of the road
And the sun has set for me
I want no rites in a gloom filled room
Why cry for a soul set free ?

Miss Me a Little - But Not Too Long
And not with your head bowed low
Remember the love that we once shared
Miss Me - But Let Me Go.

For this is a journey that we all must take
And each must go alone
It's all a part of the Master's plan
A step on the road to home.

When you are lonely and sick of heart
Go to the friends we know
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds.
Miss Me - But Let Me Go.

In Remembrance

The Beyond

It seemeth such a little way to me
Across to that strange country, The Beyond;
And yet, not strange, for it has grown to be
The home of those of whom I am so fond.

And so for me there is no Death;
It is but crossing, with abated breath,
A little strip of sea,
To find one's loved ones waiting on the shore
More beautiful. more precious than before.

Dear Vikki,

I need to start this by apologizing for taking so long to answer your letter about my husband's possible family connection to you. Work, kids and life in general keep me from accomplishing things as quickly as I'd like.

I have enclosed a copy of part of a family tree we received several years ago. My husband is the Homer who was born in 1947. It appears that you and he may be half-second cousins, if there is such a thing!

I have filled in what we know from information we have on hand. We also knew William and his wife Blanche. They lived in the Santa Rosa, California area. We lived in that area when we were first married in the early '70s and visited them. They have both died and had no children. We also met and visited with Lee's widow, Cookie who lived in Cotati, California. I think she has died now, too.

We are interested in finding out more about Homer's grandmother, Allie. She died in 1925, when Homer's dad was a young man. We have found her grave in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Los Angeles. But that is where we reach a dead end and we haven't made any effort in recent years to locate information. It's the same old story - kids, work and life!!

I thought I'd remembered seeing a memorial card from Ed, Jr., from somewhere in Virginia, but couldn't find it when I was looking for things to send you. I have included a memorial card from Fred (Homer's grandfather).

The page I've enclosed comes from an extensive family tree. We were invited to a reunion for Lucy Jane's family and lots of information was available there. Even though my husband was not a direct descendant of Lucy's, we were included and were able to learn things about their common ancestors, the Hohmans. We have a color photo of Martin's discharge from the Civil War and copies of his war records. We heard that Louisa was from the Tudors of England. That was still being looked into by historians and wasn't regarded as gospel.

I'm sorry we don't know more about the Garich end of things. We pronounce our name Garish, but Aunt Blanche would argue for hours that it's Garick. Homer's mom, Marcella, said that Homer's dad never said much about his history. He thought that his mother, Allie, died of menopause. She just couldn't get much more out of him.

Again, I apologize for not writing you sooner and wish we had some information that would help you. Do let us know if you think of something that I've left out that might be important to you. It was good hearing from you. Good luck with your search.

Sincerely,

Homer + Pam

An open letter to my family and friends,

First, I want you all to know that I know how selfish I am being by not wanting any of you to see me at this point of my life. I would much rather you have memories of me the way I was rather than the way I am now. I don't even feel like I am the same person I was before this sickness took over.

I am so grateful for all of my dear friends and family. I have so many memories that are happy and funny and each memory has a name tied to it.

I have never really thought about or really appreciated how important it is to have friends and family before. I now realize that times like this must be hard for people not as lucky as I am in that respect. It is so comforting to know I have people thinking of me and wishing the best for me.

As for my condition, I have been diagnosed with intestinal cancer that has spread into the liver and lung. Because I have had a long and happy life I am able to accept this condition without being depressed. I feel lucky to not go the way Mother did. I have been to Tulsa to the Cancer Treatment Center of America for surgery to remove blockage of the intestine to provide some comfort in eating. I feel I have always been lucky and I still feel lucky to get this over with before I get real old.

I really hope that you can understand and accept my feelings and forgive me for being so selfish, but I have also chosen not to have any kind of memorial service. Please just remember the good times when you think of me.
